Foster Calls For Speedy Inquiry

Vancouver Police Chief Asks Mayor Telford Have Commission Delay No Longer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Brig. Gen. J. A. Clark, counsel for Police Chief W. W. Foster, said today he had asked Mayor Lyle Telford to arrange for a start "without further delay" in the public inquiry by the Vancouver Police Commission into Brigadier Foster's administration.

Gen. Clark said he had written the mayor, who has laid 12 charges of inefficiency against the police chief, to allow the probe to begin as soon as possible. Earlier, the barrister had written the mayor for further information on certain charges, but he said today:

"I have not waived my request for further information, but I have informed Mayor Telford that the probe need not be put off until that information is forthcoming."

Opening date of the inquiry remained uncertain, although Mayor Telford said Saturday when he issued his charges that he would ask for it to open tomorrow. Later he indicated he would need further time to amplify the charges as requested by Gen. Clark.

Search Waters at Lions' Gate Bridge For Body of Man

Police Unable to Solve Mystery of Unknown's 300-Foot Plunge

Climbed to Tower

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver city police dragged today in search of the body of an unidentified man who plunged more than 300 feet from supporting cables of the new Lion's Gate suspension bridge into the churning waters of the harbor entrance shortly after 6 yesterday evening.

A police launch dispatched to the scene after the report of the death plunge returned shortly after 1 this morning with the report no trace of the man had been found. Later in the morning the search was resumed.

According to police and witnesses, the man was "well dressed" in dark clothes.

Miss A. B. Paradis, West Vancouver school teacher, told police she watched the entire incident through a pair of powerful binoculars, from her home. She said "the man struck the water on his back and disappeared from sight."

Miss Paradis told detectives the man climbed up the bridge cable rods near the south bridge tower—nearly 400 feet high—"as if he were tired, and he paused as he stepped on each level. When he got to the peak of the tower he seemed to look all around him. Then he fell."

Passengers of a ferry, which connects Vancouver and West Vancouver municipality through the First Narrows, also had watched the man climb almost 200 feet above the traffic deck of the bridge before he dropped.

Many of the passengers said they thought he was a bridge workman, and were unconcerned as they watched him climb.

Bridge attendants were unaware of the accident and none could recall seeing him walk across the bridge.

Police stated that because of the currents disturbing the water at the time of the plunge, they probably would not locate the body for "quite awhile." A stiff incoming tide probably swept the body into the harbor, they said.

BABY'S HEART ON OUTSIDE OF BODY

Puzzled Manila Doctors Debate Whether They Will Operate

MANILA (AP)—A seven-pound baby girl, with her heart completely outside her body, but apparently normal otherwise, alternately took nourishment and peacefully slept today while puzzled doctors worried what to do.

A thin stemless cocktail glass protected the tiny exposed heart, which rested on the infant's chest over a small opening. Through this opening the aorta, a large artery, connects the heart with the thoracic cavity where the heart normally is found.

The glass helps maintain body heat for the heart and guards against infection.

Physicians disagreed whether the child would live and debated feasibility of an operation to place the heart in its normal position inside the chest. They said there was only one other such case in recorded medical history.

The child was born Monday to a 24-year-old mother in a little maternity hospital in the heart of the Tondo slum district. She was baptized by a priest and named Maria Corazon (Mary Heart).

The most prominent medical and surgical men in the Philippines gathered about the operating table on which the baby lay, surrounded by hot water bottles and under constant care of a nurse. Among them was General Basilio Vales, chief of staff of the Philippine army and prominent also as a surgeon.

MOTORISTS GIVE CAMPAIGN AID

No Accidents During First Day and a Half Of Safety Drive

The first day and a half of Victoria's traffic safety campaign passed free of accidents today and city police were hopeful of the record being kept clean for the remainder of the week.

Tonight at 6.45 Chief J. A. McLellan will go on the air over Station CFCT to give the second talk on traffic safety. Tomorrow night at 9 the Shell Oil Company will present its second showing of sound pictures on the same subject. This showing will be given on Blanshard Street in front of the B.C. Telephone Company and on Friday night at the same hour they will be shown on View Street, between Douglas and Broad.

Brake testing was commenced yesterday when nearly 100 cars passed through the machine, several being checked up and warned to improve their brakes.

In the meantime traffic officers continued their checking of minor infractions as part of the educational campaign to organize downtown traffic properly.

Chief McLellan expressed his satisfaction with the co-operation which motorists were lending the campaign and hoped they would "keep up the good work" after the drive was over.

Effort to End Ferry Strike

Puget Sound Arbitrators Meet, But No Progress Reported

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Arbitrators in the Puget Sound ferry strike, which involves services to Victoria, reconvened after lunch today without any announcement as to their progress toward a settlement.

Shortly before noon, Paul Billingsley, ferry users' committee member, arrived at the governor's office from Vashon Island, but he did not at once enter the conference room.

One of the ferry users' demands yesterday was that they have representatives at the conferences.

Billingsley said he was just on hand "to watch developments." For a time this morning there was an "air" about Governor Martin's executive chambers that indicated some progress was being made, but by 2 o'clock that indication had disappeared.

Arbitration of the strike began about 10 a.m., with representatives of the Puget Sound Navigation Company and the Inland Boatmen's Union responding to a call from Governor Martin.

The Governor made his request yesterday, a few hours after several hundred ferry users from Bainbridge and Vashon Islands, Indianola and Bremerton descended upon the capitol with the demand that the ferry service be restored immediately.

Billingsley said the committee would stay in Olympia until the problem is permanently solved.

Governor Martin's statement said: "It is imperative that ferry service be restored without delay, not only for the convenience of the people who reside on the islands and peninsula but also for the good of the ferry service and the men employed in that industry."

Wichita, Texas, Woman Confesses to Police Story Of Attack False

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Cain, 34-year-old Wichita Falls woman found virtually stripped of her clothing and covered with red paint and feathers, told Detective Chief L. E. Hanaway and a newspaperman today "I did it myself."

The former nurse previously had told police three women pulled her into an automobile last night and kicked and beat her into unconsciousness. She stated she was unable to identify the women and could remember nothing after the beating.

Scottish Duke Arrives On Big Green-white Yacht

Magnificent Sans Peur Enters Harbor With Sutherland Party

On Alaska Cruise

On their magnificent white and green yacht Sans Peur—With-out Fear—Their Graces, the 5th Duke and Duchess of Sutherland came to Victoria today with a party of distinguished guests.

The sleek yacht, gleaming in the sun, berthed at the Belleville Street docks and over a flimsy gangway the Duke and Duchess disembarked immediately and left in Car No. 1, owned by the provincial government, for Government House, to pay a formal call on His Honor the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Hamber.

An hour and a half later they returned, the Duchess in the front seat with the chauffeur, and a few minutes later His Honor and Mrs. Hamber boarded the yacht for luncheon.

This afternoon the 51-year-old Duke played golf at Oak Bay with Capt. Hobart Molson and Hew Paterson.

His Honor and Mrs. Hamber will entertain the Duke and Duchess and their party at dinner at Government House this evening and early in the morning the yacht will leave for Alaska where the Duke will fish and hunt before proceeding around the world.

EARL OF WARWICK

In the party is the youthful Earl of Warwick, who, as Michael Brooke, is a Hollywood movie star, Mrs. Audrey Sloane-Stanley and Miss Elizabeth Leveson-Gower, the Duke's 18-year-old niece who is heiress presumptive to his Scottish titles, the Earldom of Sutherland and the Barony of Strathnaver.

As she left for Government House Her Grace was in a light summer frock, with a yachting cap and rubber shoes; His Grace wore a white flannel suit. Both wore dark glasses.

The Duchess was formerly Lady Eileen Butler, eldest daughter of the 7th Earl of Lanesborough. She and the Duke own homes in London, Surrey and in Scotland. The Duke has been Lord Steward of the Royal Household, paymaster-general to the British Government, Parliamentary under-secretary of state for war, president of the Navy League and president of the Air League of the British Empire.

Sans Peur is 210 feet long and carries a crew of 27 men. She was built six years ago and is registered with the Royal Yacht Squadron, most exclusive yacht club in the world. Her cabins and lounges are luxurious in their appointments; her decks are wide and spacious.

In command is Capt. E. Thomas, who recalled this morning that he was last here 45 years ago aboard the sailing ship Glamis, which anchored in Esquimalt harbor.

Capt. C. C. Sainty of Victoria, retired shipmaster of the B.C. coast is the pilot and will stay aboard during the Alaska cruise.

When he and Capt. Thomas commenced to talk old days of the sea coming from Vancouver this morning they learned that Capt. Thomas and Capt. Sainty's brother were shipmates more than 50 years ago in the sailing ship Bencruachan.

HIS KINDNESS DID NOT PAY

A $20 gold watch was the price which R. J. Diamond, 952 Johnson Street, paid for his generosity in giving three boys a lift to town from Royal Oak yesterday.

Driving to the city Mr. Diamond came across the youths struggling with a broken down truck. They were without means to reach the city so he offered them a lift. After he had dropped them in town he found the pockets of his coat had been rifled while it was lying on a seat in the car and the watch gone.

LUMBER EXPORT SETS RECORD

Shipments Abroad In July Total Over 117,000,000 Feet

British Columbia's overseas lumber export in July established a record for the second month, according to Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau figures.

The province shipped 117,177,121 board feet of lumber abroad during the month, exceeding June by 2,000,000 feet. The United Kingdom was the largest purchaser, alone taking 90,972,076 board feet, which swelled its purchases for the first seven months of the year to more than 514,000,000 board feet.

The figures reflect how largely the province's lumber export trade is dependent on Empire markets. Second highest customer was Australia, which took 15,654,977 feet, followed by South Africa with 3,807,161. This left less than 8,000,000 feet spread among a dozen other markets.

Steps Studied In Gas Case

Special Application to Appeal Court Seen As Improbable

Pending the meeting of the Court of Appeal on September 12, the government still has under consideration its next step in the gasoline price-fixing litigation, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said today.

This might involve a move to upset the injunction granted by Chief Justice Archer Martin restraining the government from enforcing the gas price reduction until the court meets. But at the present time there appear to be difficulties in the way of a new move before September 12.

A special session of the Court of Appeal would be necessary to seek a reversal of the Chief Justice's injunction. This has been done previously, for instance, in the case of the Natural Products Marketing Act which was referred, during the summer vacation, under the Constitutional Questions Determination Act. The gasoline action, however, is in a somewhat different position in that the Appeal Court had already ruled on its validity.

It would take some time to get the court together and a special session would save only a week or two on the injunction. Besides this, Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan, one of the judges forming the Appeal Court's quorum, will be engaged on the Sooke salmon trap inquiry after August 21.

The while Mr. Wismer said every angle is being examined to push the litigation ahead as rapidly as possible to give the public the benefit of a cut in gas prices if it is legal, it is generally understood the government will wait for the next move before the Appeal Court on September 12.

DENIES PALESTINE PLEDGES BROKEN

Critics Have Not Read White Paper, Says Sir William McLean

"It is not true to say that the British government has in any way evaded its responsibilities or broken its promises either to the Jews or the Arabs," Sir William McLean, British colonial health and social service expert, said in an interview at the Empress Hotel today.

Stressing that he was voicing only his personal opinions and not speaking officially in his capacity as the representative of the Colonial Office on a visit to the North American continent in connection with the colonial exhibit at the New York World's Fair, Sir William said: "The only answer to critics of the British scheme for Palestine is 'Take the white paper and read it.'"

Most of the criticisms of the plan heard on this continent were based not on the plan itself, but on Zionist interpretations of it, he said.

The British intention was to make neither a Jewish state nor an Arab state, but to form a Palestinian state in which would be included both a Jewish homeland and an Arab homeland.

"He believed that in 10 years' time, when the plan had gone into full effect and when it was hoped the Jews and Arabs would have lost some of their present outside-fostered hatred for each other, the new Palestinian state would turn out to be very much along the lines of present-day Egypt."

Toronto Honors Premier King On Anniversary

At City Luncheon Prime Minister Renews Pledge to Canada

Liberal Dinner Tonight

Prime Minister King's speech at the Liberal banquet in Toronto tonight will be broadcast across Canada from 6 to 7 p.m., P.S.T.

TORONTO (CP)—Looking back over 40 years of public life, Prime Minister Mackenzie King today pledged himself to continue, so far as he is able, "to serve this country, for the benefit of my fellow men, with all my heart."

The Prime Minister, here for the banquet tonight when nearly 4,000 of his supporters will observe the 20th anniversary of his election as Liberal party leader, was guest of the corporation of Toronto at a luncheon in the Royal Canadian Yacht Club.

"No one can say what the future holds in store for us," the Prime Minister said. "But no one can take away from me the enjoyment and the associations I have had in 40 years of public life."

Responding to a toast proposed by Mayor Ralph Day, the Prime Minister spoke at some length on the association he and his family have had with Toronto. The majority of Mr. King's cabinet colleagues and some 40 other guests attended the luncheon.

BY EVOLUTION

Necessary reforms could best be brought about by slow development and not by the quick, radical and almost revolutionary changes which seemed to be the goal of some of the younger candidates for public service, said the Prime Minister.

"Government is not a business nor a science," the Prime Minister said. "It is the art of so organizing human society that its members may live and work together for common good."

Mayor Day said the luncheon had been arranged without thought of politics, but to honor a political leader who spent his early years here as a student at the University of Toronto.

The mayor told the gathering that "Canada is at the crossroads and must progress along the path of true democracy to reach 'our greatest heritage and the destiny which is rightfully ours.'"

"We are fortunate in Canada and in our Empire that men of the calibre of our distinguished guest can be found who are willing to offer their services to the state and strong enough to withstand the rigors of parliamentary campaigns," Mr. Day said.

PREMIERS TO SPEAK

In paying tribute to the banquet tonight to the man who assumed his party's leadership in 1919 after the death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Liberal premiers will reply to toasts to five of the seven provinces in which Liberal governments are in power.

The provinces of Quebec and Alberta, governed respectively by Union Nationale and Social Credit administrations, will be represented by Liberal leaders Adélard Godbout and E. L. Gray.

Absent will be Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario and all his cabinet ministers. Relations between Mr. Hepburn and Mr. King have been strained for some time.

PATTULLO TO SPEAK

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba is unable to attend.

Premier Thane Campbell will speak for Prince Edward Island, Premier Angus Macdonald for Nova Scotia, Premier A. A. Dymally for New Brunswick, Premier W. J. Patterson for Saskatchewan and Premier T. D. Pattullo for British Columbia.

Mr. Hepburn refused to attend even the civic luncheon, with the statement last night: "I certainly will not be there." He gave no reason for his refusal.

Many party followers and other observers expect some indication of when the next federal election will be held may be given by Mr. King. While he is expected to set no definite date, it has been predicted freely he will either confirm or deny the report that a general election is to be held in the fall.

GERMAN PAPERS
ATTACK POLAND

Forster, Danzig Nazi Leader, Believed Talking With Hitler in Bavaria

BERLIN (AP)—New German newspaper attacks on Poland flared today as arrangements apparently were completed for a new meeting between Adolf Hitler and the Nazi leader of the Free City of Danzig.

The Danzig leader, Albert Forster, was reported to have landed last night at the Salzburg airport, only a few miles from Hitler's Berchtesgaden chalet.

Officials, however, refused to say whether Forster—who frequently has declared that Hitler must determine the moment when Germany will move into Danzig—had seen his Fuehrer. The Berlin press blasts at Poland were unusually bitter and the unanimity and enthusiasm with which all the papers sailed into the subject hinted at concerted action. The editorials followed the lead of the German official news agency, DNB, which, in a commentary criticizing the Polish newspaper Cas, attributed to it a threat that Polish artillery would demolish Danzig if the Free City attempted to reunite with Germany.

Cas, commenting on declarations Sunday by Polish Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz of the importance of Danzig to Poland's economic life, said: "The guns of the Polish army are facing Danzig, should authorities of the Free City not abandon in time the dangerous road they are following on orders from the outside."

DNB said Cas "openly threatens a malicious attack and brutal bombardment by which Danzig could be laid in ruins. But Polish loudmouths must be told they cannot ruthlessly provoke Germany in this manner."

Canton River Again
Open to Shipping

HONGKONG (AP)—The British gunboat Seamus departed for Canton Tuesday, marking the opening of the Canton River to neutral traffic after 12 days during which it was closed by the Japanese because of "military necessity."

Although the past two weeks brought increased Japanese military movements around Canton, it still was not apparent what the Japanese meant by "military necessity."

The reopening of the river bore out the original statement that the move was temporary.

Axis Issue Stirs Japan

Key Ministers Unable to Agree Whether to Extend Commitments to Germany and Italy

TOKIO (CP-Havas)—Military and civilian leaders of Japan wrestled Tuesday with the problem of Japan's relations to the Italo-German axis.

The "inner cabinet," consisting of Premier Kichiro Hiranuma, the war, navy, foreign and finance ministers, discussed the issue for five hours without announcing any agreement.

"The five-minister conference examined the European situation, but failed to reach a conclusion. The five key members of the cabinet will make a further study of the matter," said the communique issued by Kozo Ohta, chief secretary of the cabinet.

War Minister Seishiro Itagaki returned tonight to the war office and summoned the principal officers in the ministry together to discuss the army's course.

JAPANESE DENY
THEY BOMBED SHIPS

Neither Navy Nor Army Admits Fliers Sank British Yangtze Craft

SHANGHAI (AP)—Confronted by reluctance of the Japanese army and navy to accept responsibility for Sunday's air raids at Ichang in which a Canadian was wounded, British authorities Tuesday sought information wherever obtainable to establish the identity of the attackers.

Naval authorities denied Monday that their aircraft raided Ichang, more than 1,000 miles up the Yangtze, where two British steamers were destroyed with the deaths of four crewmen and injury to five, including H. G. Denyer, a Canadian who formerly lived at Victoria, B.C.

In authoritative quarters it was reported today that army authorities likewise had denied responsibility for the raids. An army spokesman said yesterday that he had "no information" but "if it happened it was a regrettable mistake."

MOB SEIZES GASOLINE

The Chinese press at Peiping reported an anti-British riot at Chasan on the Tsinan-Tsingtao railway in Shantung province. A mob was reported to have entered the Asiatic Petroleum Company's plant and seized a quantity of gasoline.

An anti-British mass meeting at Tsingtao, to have been held Tuesday, was postponed, reportedly because the Japanese navy had refused permission, although it may be held after the three-day anti-British meeting which starts at Tientsin August 12 and to which cities in Japanese-occupied areas are sending delegates.

Floods continued to menace Tientsin, the Hai River rising within 18 inches of the British and French bunds. Only one remaining dike prevented inundation of the native section.

The Peiping press printed a list of British products which shops were forbidden to sell and lists of similar Japanese or German goods which should be sold instead. At the summer resort of Peitaiho the anti-British campaign developed a new twist. Chinese merchants were instructed to charge British customers five times their normal prices. One British woman reported paying $15 Chinese (1.27) for a pound of butter.

NEWS SOUGHT

Meanwhile reports reaching here said a courier had left the British mission hospital at Chengchow in an attempt to cross Japanese lines to reach Kaifeng and learn the fate of the American mission colony there under increasing Japanese anti-American pressure.

Last word from the colony came by courier Saturday, when the missionaries were reported preparing to flee because of the anti-American campaign. Kaifeng is about 40 miles east of Chengchow, in northern Honan province.

Japanese Report
Mongols Repulsed

TOKIO (AP)—A Domei Japanese news agency dispatch from Hsinking reported today 800 invading Mongol sharpshooters were repulsed by Japanese Manchukuo forces in a two-hour battle.

The clash took place near the confluence of the Khalka and Khorstun rivers on the western boundary of Manchukuo. Two hundred Mongols were reported killed.

The dispatch said the Japanese had shot 74 planes since Saturday.

U.S. Charge in Discussion in Tokio

TOKIO (AP)—The charge d'affaires of the United States embassy, Eugene H. Dooman, conferred Tuesday with Seijiro Yoshizawa, chief of the American affairs section of the Japanese Foreign Office. They declined to disclose whether Dooman delivered a note.

An authoritative source said the note concerned "an isolated affair unrelated to the general Asiatic situation."

A further delay in resumption of British-Japanese talks on China issues was agreed on by British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie and Sotomatsu Kato, Japanese minister-at-large to China, authoritative sources said. Sir Robert was said to want additional instructions from London on economic questions, which have become of primary importance.

SINGAPORE (CP-Reuters)—One battalion of British troops and two battalions of Indian troops arrived today from India to strengthen the Singapore garrison. One battalion and a squadron of planes arrived yesterday.

Britain Stages Air Manoeuvres

LONDON (CP)—Great Britain's anti-aircraft defenses were manned today against a make-believe "enemy" bombing raid in a spectacular prologue to full dress rehearsal of the nation's armed forces.

The raiders—500 of them—will operate from the south and east. One group of Royal Air Force planes playing the part of the enemy will fly over France to night to wheel back from the vicinity of Beauvais, northwest of Paris. The rest will swoop in from the North Sea.

Their jobs will be to dodge 800 defending planes, some 1,400 anti-aircraft guns and a barrage of 500 or so captive balloons designed to fend off bombing planes. It is estimated about 60,000 men will take part in the exercise, which will continue till Friday night. Observers will note the effectiveness of both the attackers and the defensive operations.

Climax of the aerial manoeuvres will come with a blackout at 12.30 a.m. Thursday covering half of England, including London.

Street lights and traffic signals will be snapped out and all-night restaurants and clubs darkened along with docks and railway stations. Trains and buses will operate with screened lights. A small army of air raid precautions force will test the efficiency of their organization.

They are the largest aerial manoeuvres ever held in this country.

Along with the air war games is a program of sea manoeuvres by the Home Fleet and the reserve fleet, which the King will review at Weymouth Wednesday. Land forces are similarly undergoing a vast training program which will reach a climax with one of the biggest peacetime "battles" in Britain's history in Yorkshire September 14 to 21.

CONSCRIPTS IN NAVY

The Admiralty issued a call today for 3,000 former sailors and marines to man training ships for conscripts, and certain ships of the reserve fleet and to work with the naval air service.

The program of manoeuvres between now and the end of September calls for a parade of the full power of British armed forces. Observers see two motives—to have armaments at the peak of efficiency against any emergency and to lend weight to British commitments such as the promise to back Poland against a threat to her independence.

The continuing preparedness campaign was further exemplified by the Admiralty announcement of the creation of two special reserve sections. The new divisions, to be known as the Royal Navy Supplementary Party and the Royal Marines Supplementary Party, will include former navy men of all ratings, ex-soldiers and former petty marine officers. Similar reorganization in the fleet's air arm will be made.

Tonight's flight over France will cap the series of three mass British bombing expeditions carried out successfully across the English Channel. The last flight was staged on July 25.

French planes are due to stage a series of "raids" over Britain.

New U.S. Envoy at
Embassy in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, new United States ambassador to Soviet Russia, assumed charge today of the embassy, which has been without a chief of mission for 14 months. Steinhardt was ambassador to Peru before his assignment to Moscow.

The embassy staff and representatives of the Russian Foreign Office greeted Steinhardt at the station. Absence of Vladimir P. Potemkin, First Vice-Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and Constantine A. Oumansky, ambassador to the United States, from the welcoming group aroused interest in view of recent unconfirmed reports regarding a change in the status of these two.

(The appointment of two new Vice-Commissioners of Foreign Affairs June 8 gave rise to rumors Potemkin was on the way out of office. Oumansky arrived in Moscow in mid-July, ostensibly on vacation.)

Thousands of Raiders
Hunted in Spain

HENDAYE, France (AP)—Spanish Nationalists were reported today to be engaged in a widespread hunt for thousands of "men without a government" hiding in the Asturian mountains of northwest Spain.

Advices said General Franco's men had arrested hundreds of civilians accused of giving former republican soldiers food and shelter.

The cities of Oviedo and Gijon were said to have yielded large numbers of persons accused of harboring the night-riding mountaineers.

Asturian mountaineers once among the hardest fighting of republican soldiers, were said to have turned to a nomadic life in the northwest, some of them still using their weapons for sniping. They get their food from secret sympathizers or by theft.

TRIBUTE TO KING
BY PATTULLO

Our Fathers Were Friends, Says B.C. Leader, In Toronto for Banquet

TORONTO (CP)—Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia, here for the anniversary dinner in honor of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said today it represented more to him than a political event.

The premier said "the Prime Minister's father and my father were friends and Mackenzie King and I have perpetuated the friendship since we were boys."

"I can clearly recall my father cautioning me to stay out of politics—and at the same time telling me that 'that boy King would be Prime Minister some day,'" Mr. Pattullo declared.

"I have always thought the injunction to stay out of politics was really an urge to get into it."

The premier, who has represented Prince Rupert in the B.C. Legislature 23 years without interruption said he was pleased that business conditions on the west coast are bright and prosperous and likely to remain that way.

"Our fruit crop is good this year, the timber and fishing industries are healthy and like the east, we are looking for brighter conditions in the prairie provinces because of the bumper crops."

"I do not think it is just a momentary spurt, but a change to permanently better economic conditions," he said.

When he returns to British Columbia, the premier said he will embark on a 6,000-mile trip by air to the northern part of the province and over most of the Yukon Territory and Alaska.

Mr. Pattullo said he would like to see a national policy adopted, advocating immigration. People are still needed in the Dominion, he said, but they must be selected and must be scattered when they arrive here.

STAGE SEAL HUNT
IN ENGLISH BAY

VANCOUVER (CP)—High-powered rifles cracked out along the shore of English Bay today as civic park board employees staged a seal hunt. Six animals were killed, but none were recovered.

George Burrows, manager of city beaches, said seals had been reported swimming around in the bay recently and the purpose of the hunt was to scare them away.

Although seals are not usually known to attack human being Albert McCarthy, 17, reported a seal bit him on the wrist Sunday and swam away. The wound required three stitches.

Mr. Burrows said that was the first time he had heard of a seal biting a person. He said the city was staging the hunt because the bay was a favorite place for seals to bathe and lives of swimmers should not be "endangered."

POLISH CUSTOMS
MEN CARRY RIFLES

WARSAW (CP) — Orders to wear full uniforms and carry rifles while on duty have been issued to Polish customs officials on the Danzig-East Prussian frontier, the newspaper Kurjer Warszawski said today.

There was no official confirmation of the order. It was pointed out, however, that Polish customs officials of the Free City are entitled to be armed, although the practice has not always been observed.

It was said Poland was prepared to create a customs staff at Danzig strong enough to resist any attempts at forcible interference with their work, or any attempts at forcible expulsion.

The order to carry rifles, it was said, would remain in force until it could be determined whether anticipated negotiations between Polish and Danzig authorities over customs control could bring any clear settlement of difficulties.

A Danzig note, delivered Monday to Marian Chodacki, Polish high commissioner in the Free City, offered to negotiate the customs issue and repudiated charges that threats had been made against Polish inspectors.

Diplomatic quarters regarded the note as a success for the "force against force" warning sounded Sunday by Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, inspector-general of the Polish army. Polish quarters were more cautious, however, asserting the note had not basically changed the situation.

(Nazi political quarters in Berlin termed the note a rejection of a Polish ultimatum, and as such a rebuff to Warsaw. It was agreed, however, that Danzig had offered to talk the customs control question over with Warsaw.)

Further reports arrived here of German army concentrations in Upper Silesia. One dispatch said detachments of the seventh Reich army corps were being massed in the Zabrze region, several miles from the Polish frontier.

55,000 Refugees In Britain

Germans, Austrians and Czechs
Seek Safety From Persecution

By GUY E. RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON — A steady trickle of refugees, mostly from Germany, has reached the United Kingdom since March, 1933, when Adolf Hitler established the Third Reich and started ousting Jews from civil life.

Official figures show 40,000 reached Britain by last March 31 and reliable sources estimate the number increases steadily at an average rate of roughly 5,000 a month. In the six years since the influx started approximately 6,000 refugees have left the country for other shores where opportunity beckoned.

The 55,000 who have reached here came first from Germany, then from Austria after last year's Anschluss and from Czechoslovakia after the Munich agreement failed to prevent the dismemberment of that country. A few came from Poland, where recurrent outbreaks of anti-Semitism made life difficult.

Many of the migrants hold only temporary immigration permits, renewable from time to time. Many others are here now on a more or less permanent basis. Some have become established in domestic service, some have been absorbed into professions and in industry, especially in skilled jobs for which the supply of workers was ordinarily inadequate.

VOLUNTEER GROUPS

Placing of refugees in employment has been carried out by numerous volunteer case-working committees whose task is finding vacant jobs, then finding suitable persons to fill them from among refugees.

Such bodies include the German-Jewish aid committee, the Society of Friends, the Christian Council, the International Hebrew Christian Alliance and the Society for the Protection of Science and Learning. The last-named organization seeks to place savants whose race, religious or political views have brought them into conflict with authority in their own countries.

So far money for refugee rehabilitation has come from voluntary contributions of citizens, in conformity with the Evian commission's decision that none of the 32 governments represented on it should be asked to dip into its public accounts for funds.

Now it is becoming apparent that voluntary contribution, large though it has been, may not be sufficient for long. The British government noticed this approaching situation and Prime Minister Chamberlain pledged his administration to suggest to the Evian conferees the advisability of reversing their decision and asking governments to contribute.

BRITAIN'S PROBLEM

By comparison with the 200,000 refugees the United States has taken the International Kingdom's record of 55,000 looks small. But Britain is faced with a situation in which it cannot absorb an ever-increasing number of migrants in lucrative employment, and that is what most of them need.

Britain has no wide-open spaces. It has faced for years, indeed, the problem of finding jobs for its own people or persuading them to emigrate to parts of the Empire which are willing to absorb them.

Britain and other Evian committee participants hope to evolve schemes for large-scale refugee migration to comparatively unpeopled parts of the world in which they could establish themselves in whole communities.

Vancouver Gas
Price Unchanged

VANCOUVER (CP) — The service station division of the Retail Merchants' Association yesterday decided to maintain the present retail price of gasoline throughout the city. The price is 27 cents for standard and 29 cents for premium grade.

The action was taken at a meeting called here to consider the effect of an injunction granted to British Columbia oil companies by Chief Justice Archer Martin in Victoria Saturday.

The injunction restrains the provincial fuel board from enforcing an order to reduce the wholesale price of gasoline until the full British Columbia Court of Appeal can consider the injunction.

Seal Bites Swimmer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three stitches are evidence today that 17-year-old Albert McCarthy was bitten by a seal while swimming in English Bay here at the week-end.

The seal grasped him by the wrist, but immediately let go and swam away. The injury is not serious.

Fishermen here say seals do not usually touch human beings.

LACK OF FUNDS
FOR EDUCATIONCanadian Teachers' Head
Says Aid Needed for Rural Instructors

MONTREAL (CP) — President M. E. Lazerte of Edmonton today told the Canadian Teachers' Federation that the "people of Canada have a respect for education but it is a respect which, in many ways, is divorced from the willingness to pay for services rendered."

In his presidential address at the opening of general sessions, the federation head said that a lack of funds was one of the greatest handicaps facing the teachers' group and that "no one realizes the truth of this statement as much as the rural school teachers."

Mr. Lazerte told delegates from every province in the Dominion that rural schoolteachers "are very inadequately paid" and that "we cannot have a real profession of teaching until the lot of the rural teachers is bettered."

Questioning a number of "subsidiary" activities of the federation, Mr. Lazerte thought that "while these activities are admittedly of great value, one wonders often if they should cut in as they do on the time and energy of a federation which has many major professional problems with which it should deal."

"I think at the moment," he said, "of the work of the Canadian National Committee of Refugees and Victims of Political Persecution, of the Fire Prevention Association, of the Canadian Welfare Council, of the League of Nations, and of other organizations with whose activities we have contact."

Mr. Lazerte added, however, that the federation had, wherever possible, co-operated by appointing members of committees.

C. N. Crutchfield of Shawinigan Falls, Que., secretary-treasurer, informed delegates in his report that the federation's application for affiliation with the American Association for the Advancement of Science had been accepted unanimously.

Mr. Crutchfield, who described the finances of the federation as being in a "sound condition," said that resolutions received included one from the Alberta Teachers' Association advocating the Dominion Government be urged "to take steps to furnish a basic educational program for all Canada by granting subsidies to the several provincial governments to supplement provincial government grants to local educational authorities."

The research committee of the federation, in a report tabled at today's session, asked for a national survey of teachers' salaries. The report will come up for discussion later at the five-day conference.

HEAT ON PRAIRIES
BRINGS CROP LOSS

REGINA (CP) — Hot, dry weather during the past two weeks has brought further declines in Saskatchewan crop prospects, said a report issued today by the provincial Department of Agriculture.

In some southern districts no commercial crop will be harvested, the report said. In the western portion of the south-central district crops are still fair to good and similar prospects still obtain in the northern and north-western districts.

Grasshopper damage has been patchy. Some cutting has been done in the drier districts, but harvesting is not expected to get into full swing in most districts until the middle of the month. Much coarse grain has been cut to prevent further deterioration.

Livestock has stood up well, but pastures are badly in need of rain in many districts.

China Exports
Lost Panda

CHUNGKING, China (CP) — A four-year-old panda, probably the last which will be permitted to leave China, was en route to the United States by way of Hongkong today under the care of its captor, Gordon Campbell of Winnipeg.

The animal, which is destined for the St. Louis, Mo., zoo, arrived here from Chengtu by air plane.

A decree issued by the Chinese government forbids the export of pandas, but Campbell's was captured and assigned to the St. Louis zoo before publication of the decree.

OVER MILLION FISH
SCALE BONNEVILLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Fisheries has a flock of finny figures to cast at the skeptics who said fish would never scale Bonneville Dam.

Releasing the first report on the piscatorial pilgrims which have ridden the elevators over the huge dam in the Columbia River, the bureau said the first year's traffic totaled 1,174,134.

"Among the thousands of people who visited Bonneville Dam during the summer (1938)," said the bureau, "probably the majority saw few, if any, fish, and many of the visitors went away with a feeling of doubt regarding the success of the fishways."

The fish folk at Bonneville realized they had a problem. Fish were climbing the dam, but they weren't getting into the record. Something had to be done.

In May, 1938, the bureau placed workers who know their fish at various stations on the dam and said "count 'em."

Fish "counting" is not an easy job, it seems. The counters peer at the fish as they come over the dam for 16 hours a day, recording each one according to species.

Experience proved that no matter how much a man loves fish, he can't look at them for more than 45 minutes at a time. Then he must rest his weary eyes for 15 minutes.

BOOK ON GERMANY
DISPUTED IN BRITAINProf. A. P. Laurie
Defends 'Good Side'
Of Nazi System

LONDON (CP) — Prof. Arthur P. Laurie, revealing he had received a "jump sum" from a Berlin publisher for a book entitled: "The Case for Germany," last night angrily denied a charge made by the Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, last week that the Anglo-German amity association known as "The Link," was a tool of Nazi propaganda.

Dr. Laurie, 77, prominent chemist and former principal of the Heriot-Watt College, Edinburgh, is a member of the council of "The Link," whose activities elicited the following statement from Sir Samuel in the House of Commons last Thursday:

"The professed object of this organization is to promote understanding between England and Germany, but it does nothing to enable the Germans to understand the English view, and devotes itself to expressing the German viewpoints. The information I have shows the organization is being used as an instrument of the German propaganda service, and that money has been received from Germany by one of the active organizers."

Prof. Laurie, discussing the latter charge with newspapermen, said: "I cannot imagine that Sir Samuel Hoare was referring to me in this accusation."

After working on his new book for two years, the professor explained he offered it to London publishers, but they said they would not publish a book favorable to Germany.

"On the suggestion of a friend," he went on, "I offered it to the International Publishing Company in Berlin. They published it. The book will be on sale in shops in this country."

"It is a two-year's study of the Nazi system, which I examined at first hand, and describes the good side of the Nazi organization."

The Link's only paid employee is a typist, and all other work done by the organization is voluntary, Prof. Laurie said.

"The book I have written is, I consider, an honest book for the information of the British public, and it is not true that I have been paid to write propaganda for Germany."

Newspapermen were given to understand The Link would press the Home Secretary either to furnish proof of the accusations or withdraw them.

Police Chief Takes Off
Badge, Thrashes Man

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (AP) — Chuck Murray, a husky miner, found out Morris Dolan, police chief in this historic mining camp, is not a man to hide behind his badge.

"If you're not too yellow, take off your badge and fight," the chief said Murray challenged when Dolan interviewed yesterday in a wrangle between Murray and a rancher who demanded $4 for towing Murray's wreck-damaged automobile.

Chief Dolan at once tore off the badge.

In the fight, Dolan, 32 years old and strong-shouldered, quickly knocked Murray down with a rain of smashing blows.

Murray's nose was broken.

The rancher, after witnessing the battle, told the miner to forget about the $4, said W. A. Kyrner, Cripple Creek newspaper man.

"The fight was worth it," the rancher declared.

Mars Is Topic
Of LectureGordon Shaw Quotes
Lowell On Possibility of Life On the Red Planet

"Mars, Our Neighboring Planet," was the lecture theme at the meeting of the Victoria Branch of the Royal Astronomical Society's summer course in astronomy at Victoria College last night.

Gordon Shaw, the lecturer, told the large gathering that if observations made by the late Percival Lowell of Flagstaff, Arizona, were correct, then the possibility of there being life on the planet was quite feasible.

Lowell had been of the opinion that the planet seemed to show canals which ran in geometrically straight lines and which seemed to be artificial. This would lead people to believe that these were built by intelligent life.

"If there is intelligent life on this planet we would expect it to be of higher order than our own as the period of evolution on Mars began long before our own," Mr. Shaw said.

The other planets showed no evidence whatever of being able to support life. They either had poisonous gases in their atmosphere, such as ammonia and carbon dioxide, or else they had little or no atmosphere at all.

Mars and the earth were similar in many ways. Mars was 4,200 miles in diameter, earth was 7,920 miles in diameter. Mars' period of rotation was 24 hours, 37 minutes, 22 seconds—slightly greater than that of the earth. Its year consisted of 687 days—nearly twice that of an earth year.

Much had been said of the Martian polar caps. Many say that it is hoar-frost, others say that it is snow, and still others said that it is a solidified gas. Scientists were content to believe that it is some form of precipitation but are not certain just what kind it is until further information can be obtained.

Racial Variation in Primitive FamiliesBones Found in Ancient Cave in China
Give Scientists New Lead

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Out of a prehistoric cave in north China has come evidence which is interpreted by Dr. Franz Weidenreich, noted anthropologist, as indicating the basis of racial variation existed within single families of primitive humans.

In the cave, Dr. Weidenreich told the Pacific Science Congress here yesterday, were found the bones of seven persons. Apparently they were all members of one family and they ranged from an old man to a new-born baby. They lived somewhere between 20,000 and 100,000 years ago, Dr. Weidenreich said.

"The skull of the old man looks in general like the Upper Paleolithic Man of Europe (who lived at least 12,000 years ago) but showed some special features characteristic of Asiatic races of today," Dr. Weidenreich reported.

A female skull, he added, had "the distinct appearance of a present-day Melanesian." The Melanesians are the black pigmented peoples living on the equatorial islands in the southern Pacific, especially between Australia and China.

Another female skull, Dr. Weidenreich reported, shows clear resemblance to the Eskimo of today.

"These facts prove there was not a uniformity but great variability of the physical character of even the earliest representatives of modern man, which corresponds to the various racial characters of today," he said.

According to Dr. Weidenreich's interpretation, some of the original inhabitants of North America, the Indians and Eskimos, are just as foreign to the new world, so far as racial characteristics are concerned, as are the people who came here from Europe three centuries or more ago.

closest—would give astronomers a chance to study it more closely. Doubtless much interesting and new information would be obtained about the planet.

A general discussion took place after the meeting, members of the course asking many questions about the topic of the lecture.

Dr. R. M. Petrie spoke briefly on the August meteor swarms which were to be seen on August 10, 11, and 12.

An observation period was spent on the college lawn after the lecture. Members of the society had their telescopes through which they looked at Mars and the moon.

Canadian Florists
May Fight Sales Tax

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans to enter a defence in a test case which the Department of National Revenue proposed to launch are before the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, which opened its annual meeting here yesterday. The proposed case arises from refusal of a Montreal floral company to pay sales taxes on flowers grown in the open to test legality of the tax.

During the past year representatives of the association appeared before the commissioner of excise and protested the sales tax law was unfairly imposed in that some growers, classed as florists, had to pay the tax and others, classed as farmers, were exempt.

The association hopes the courts will find that florists are farmers and therefore their product is altogether exempt from the sales tax.

Aberhart Commended

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. S. J. Boyd, mayor of Newmarket, criticized in an address at a Conservative Party picnic yesterday those who termed Premier Aberhart of Alberta "repudiator."

"I say if a government is able to pay 3 per cent on its obligations and cannot pay 6 per cent and does pay the 3 per cent, then that government is an honest government," said Dr. Boyd. "You have got to give him credit for running the Alberta government cheaper than the previous government was run."

First British Service

LETTERS WRITTEN IN LONDON LATE last Thursday afternoon reached Victoria soon after midday yesterday and replies to them will leave here tonight to catch the Caribou when it begins its return flight to Southampton on Thursday. In other words, the new trans-Atlantic airmail service now makes possible the complete exchange of business and other correspondence between the Pacific coast of the North American continent, even allowing the plane to include New York in its itinerary, in eight days—under all-British auspices.

No longer does the ordinary mortal become unduly excited when aviation chalks up another dazzling record. He has become thoroughly accustomed to regard as commonplace something that would have been laughed out of court as practically impossible even 10 years ago. And this new accomplishment especially captures our imagination only because it is the result of careful general experimentation over the last year or so. About the only novelty left is a regular passenger air service that will connect London with Victoria in 48 hours. Who dares to say this will not be ordinary routine transportation by 1949?

Britain's Reserve "Stocking"

WHEN SIR JOHN SIMON, GREAT Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, presented his budget to the House of Commons last April he gave notice he would require £630,000,000 to satisfy this year's demand for new armaments—and said at that time "it may well be more." A few days before Parliament took its summer recess he asked for an additional £150,000,000 which, "on current reckonings," would represent supplementary expenditure, or an increase of £100,000,000 over the £50,000,000 he thought would be the limit of his supplementary estimate. As the Chancellor said, this is a "very, very heavy burden," both on the present and on the future generations. It means a much larger expenditure for armaments now than was actually the case in 1915.

Staggering as these figures are, however, the debate on the increased cost of preparedness brought out some interesting information relating to the country's ability to meet the bills now and in the future. The Chancellor gave the House of Commons statistics disclosing the savings of the people as at the end of 1931 and at the end of 1937, with others for later dates. These included the amounts accounted for by National Savings Certificates, Post Office Savings Bank, and funds in other institutions, together with accumulated monies in industrial and various forms of social insurance, trades unions, Railway Savings Bank, and so on. The totals revealed savings at the end of 1931 of £2,365,000,000 and at the latest date for which official figures are available of £3,386,500,000, an increase alone for the comparative period of no less than £1,021,500,000, or $5,107,500,000 at the normal rate of dollar-pound exchange.

These figures are intensely interesting in themselves; but they are especially significant and encouraging in view of the fact that the British government intends to borrow £500,000,000 of this year's armament total estimate, raising £380,000,000 of it by popular loan. In other words, if the money for this latter amount were to come wholly from the grand total of the savings of the people as set down by Sir John Simon, the respectable sum of more than £3,000,000,000 would still remain untouched in this one monetary reservoir. Here is the explanation of the Briton's philosophical frame of mind as he contemplates the cost of preventing war by making it too risky for Hitler to get really nasty.

Rearmament's Bad Effects

ONE STRIKING POINT BROUGHT OUT in a report recently presented to the International Labor Conference in Geneva is that increased production of armaments in many of the leading countries of the world has, even in the last year, not only caused considerable dislocation of ordinary industry but is also threatening an ominous fall in the standard of living.

Foremost among the early effects of the intensified programs of rearmament, of course, was the absorption of all suitable workers in the industries concerned. From that point on it became necessary to limit activity and investment in industries not connected with arms, and to limit in some cases the importation of consumption goods. Next have come measures to reduce consumption by increased taxation on essential articles, one of which, incidentally, is sugar. Hence, through this general tendency, do living standards become impaired.

This necessary consequence of the arms race shows clearly the basic distinction between this kind of public spending and the system of government investment to stimulate peace-time industries. In both cases there is increased activity and lower unemployment, but only in the latter is there an increase in consumption and in the standard of living. When money is spent unproductively on arms, as Germany in particular is discovering, the whole of a country's economy rests on a fictitious foundation.

Baldwin the Spectator

EARL BALDWIN WILL SOON BE ON his way to the United States to deliver a lecture before the World Congress on Education for Democracy at a New York assembly. He will speak, not as a politician, but as a spectator of the international panorama of strange events. He does these things well. His occupancy of the position of British Prime Minister in three Parliaments has not diluted the quality of his philosophy; and he may have some really practical contribution to make toward the solution of the world's problems.

We get an insight into the Baldwin point of view—expanded no doubt since a grateful country drafted the former Prime Minister into the House of Lords—from an address the eminent statesman delivered on Speech Day at Malvern College. He was warning a rising generation to avoid "intellectual pride" when "you grow older." It was one of the few things left in life that made him "see red." Said he specifically on this point: "I think intellectual pride or conceit is by far the most vulgar thing in the world. After all, the nouveaux riches are generally proud of something they have made themselves, but the clever boy has not made his own brains—he has allowed somebody else to polish them."

Earl Baldwin reminded his youthful audience that few things were more desired or valued than popularity. A great many public men of all schools and of all classes sought it and desired, in the useful slang phrase, to "get across" to the multitude. These were things no one could do by trying. One had to forget oneself and then popularity would come—or it would not. To those who were going out into the world he would say: "Put everything into your job, whatever it is, and it will give you what you need." He added this truth, which cannot be too strongly emphasized: "If you see yourself in your mind's eye as bigger than your job, you will never make a job of it, even though your breast is covered with medals. You will never get across and you will never be a great influence."

Art With a Capital A

THERE IS, AFTER ALL, NO MONEY IN art. Artists have been assuring us of that for a long time. But Lawrence Wright, British composer and music publisher, does not agree and because of it he is becoming rich.

Jacob Epstein, the sculptor, works in a big way, his figures powerful, bizarre, somewhat disconcerting. They have gained wide publicity. Epstein did an "Adam" that scaled seven tons, sold for $35,000. Wright persuaded the buyer to allow him to exhibit "Adam" at a summer seaside resort. Thousands paid two shillings to see the statue. Wright cut the price to a shilling, then to sixpence. Even at that small fee he is taking in as much as £1,000 a day from people desirous of seeing Epstein's concept of Father Adam, sculptured in the grand manner.

In Canadian currency it means $5,000 a day. It shows there is money even in art if the right showman gets behind it.

One of our Canadian preachers urges the press to print the good news only; but a fellow has to know once in a while what's going on abroad.

A coast-to-coast hiker is counting his steps on the way. From our experience with such people on the highways, it would mean more if he would count the thumb waggles.

They put one of those new hats on a Hollywood monkey, but when she saw herself in a mirror she tore the creation to shreds. The incident has started the Portland Oregonian wondering whether that Darwinian theory might not be upside down.

Gold continues to play an increasingly large part in the economy of Canada. Dominion Bureau of Statistics latest report shows that Canadian gold production during May rose to 432,349 ounces from the preceding month's total of 406,795 ounces and the May, 1938, output of 381,795 ounces. During the first five months of 1939, Canada produced 2,055,662 ounces, compared with 1,827,475 for the corresponding period of 1938 and 1,630,629 for the corresponding period of 1937.

'Victoria Shows Us Up'

From Vancouver Sun

While Vancouver has been struggling along with a new Deathless Days Campaign every week or so, Victoria has stepped in to show us what real traffic morality is. They say a "100 Deathless Days" campaign is too easy. They are going to have "Accident Free" weeks.

Victoria's action is an example and a challenge to Vancouver, which this city should take up at once. But we have got to wake up our traffic conscience to do it. Most of us have, we hope. But too many drivers and pedestrians as well, are still smugly convinced that if anybody has to be reformed it's the other fellow. They have two ways of looking at traffic, both wrong. First, that no matter what happens they were blameless. Second, that accidents don't matter as long as nobody gets killed.

For some obscure reason Vancouver is fond of laughing at Victoria, but while Vancouver is halfheartedly pretending not to kill people, Victoria is determined not to hurt people.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

GREAT PROBLEM

THE NEW YORK TIMES publishes a highly-important map of America which everyone should see and study. It is a gastronomic map, and gastronomy is far more important to most people than geography, politics or economics. The gastronomic boundaries, after all, are what count when you are hungry, as we generally are.

Now it appears from this map that the gastronomic boundaries of the United States are very definite and clear. Each area in the country has some peculiarity of cooking, some great contribution to the digestion of the nation, some dish essentially its own, from corn pone in the south to baked beans in the north.

This is the sure proof that a national culture and a national spirit and a genuine civilization have developed south of the 49th parallel. You can examine a nation in many ways, through its religion, its politics, its economics, its dress, its marriage customs or by what it thinks of Donald Duck, which is a pretty good test. But much better is the gastronomic test. What does it eat? And what has it contributed to the eating of mankind? That is the test.

The United States has contributed much, has built a tradition, established a culture, but as I have said many times before, we in Canada have failed completely in this essential department of life. Indeed, you might say that in no aspect of our life do we show our lack of nationhood so much as in our lack of national cooking.

DESPITE ENGLISH COOKING

It is true, of course, that some nations lack great good cooking and yet are great nations. The ordinary Englishman never tastes a decent meal in his life, and the ordinary B.C. logger or miner would strike if you attempted to feed him on the five-shilling dinner of the good English country inn. Even Simpson's beef wouldn't satisfy him, because he wants several kinds of meat to select from.

No, England is great despite its cooking; or perhaps the opposite may be the truth by the curious paradox of the British character. Perhaps Britain became grim and strong and tough on its tough meat. Perhaps the serious trend of the British mind, the sweet melancholy which produced Shakespeare and turned Keats to exquisite longing was bred of dank Brussels sprouts and soggy potatoes. Certainly they affect the ordinary visitor that way, but, poor fellow, cannot find escape in poetry. In England you can never escape the Brussels sprouts. They follow you to the wharf at your departure and the perfume of them lingers out to the three-mile limit on the sea.

England is one of the great nations of history and, having produced Shakespeare and Keats, can afford to maintain its present style of cooking, as a rich man can afford to go about with old clothes on. Everybody knows he has wealth anyway. Everybody knows that under the outer layer of Brussels sprouts England has a tough core. Beneath the soggy potatoes beats a heart of oak.

CANADIAN DISH

But in Canada we cannot afford the luxury of bad cooking. We have no Shakespeare or Keats to offer as an excuse for our failures. Actually our cooking is very good, but it is not national, it is not distinctive. It is good, but is it art? That is the point—is it art? No, it is not art because it has no genius in it, no originality. There is nothing in it typically Canadian—nothing you can turn to, as you can turn to a soggy potato and say, ah, there beats the great heart of England. You cannot turn to a plate of ham and eggs and say there beats the great heart of Canada, because we didn't invent ham and eggs. They are American.

You can go from one end of Canada to the other, as I have done almost completely twice this year, and never see the heart of Canada beating on your plate at all; never see any dish which you could call truly a part of our character, truly our contribution to the culture of the world. Oyster pie from Queen Charlotte Island was the nearest approach I saw to something truly Canadian, and, while it is something, you can't build a civilization on oyster pie as you can on Brussels sprouts and soggy potatoes.

OR MUCH ELSE

The trouble is our cooking entered into the world too late. It found so many cultures to thieves from that it thieved from them all—ham and eggs from the United States, puddings from Scotland, Brussels sprouts from England; whereas the pioneers of other countries had to invent their own foods or perish. Hence corn pone and Boston beans and New England fish chowder. Hence chicken gumbo in the south. Hence the glory of seafood stews and extravaganzas along the eastern shore.

Nothing of the sort has been developed in Canada, and the reason is that we have no national genius yet, no national feeling. But if we have no national feeling to produce our own cooking, perhaps our own cooking would produce national feeling. If Canadians had something to tie to, something they could point to as the English point to Brussels sprouts and to the good roast beef which they so seldom have, then, perhaps, we would make a nation out of this. If we could say well, we have no literature, no art, no science, but we do have our Canadian soup, then you might find an upward surge of Canadianism, just as no Britisher can look back at Brussels sprouts, after a long absence, without a feeling of melancholy pride. Many cannot bear to look back at it at all.

Germans Are Germans

By ELMORE PHILPOTT

LORD HALIFAX is quoted as saying that Hitler would be a lot easier to deal with if only he had gone to Oxford. A San Francisco paper is convinced that the basic cause of the European and world crisis is that Hitler and Mussolini are not gentlemen. Both of these expressions were, of course, supposed to be funny. But it is a case of many a true word being spoken in jest. For it is highly improbable that there will ever be enough mutual understanding between the Germans and the Anglo-Saxons until we, the latter, get it through our rather thick heads that the Germans do not think as we think.

It was a hard-bolled German who summed up the whole situation not so many years ago in one sentence when he said: "We Germans will never be gentlemen and you English will always be fools."

Time and time again the English have made the blunder of expecting the Germans to act as if they had been brought up on the playing fields of Eton and Harrow. They are shocked and horrified when the Teuton knocks someone down and then does not say in the approved English public school manner, "Sorry, old chap." They can understand him wanting to fight, for that is a gentlemanly attribute. But they cannot conceive of him not wanting to obey the Marquis of Queensbury rules when he does fight.

The German for his part always has a grievance against the Britisher, because the latter insists on talking in peacetime like a thorough-going pacifist and then at the critical moment goes forth to fight with a ruthlessness equal to that employed by any other people on earth. So the German concludes that the Britisher is a hypocrite. But he is wrong. The Britisher is not. In peacetime he really did feel like a pacifist. Nor did he enter war with any consciously selfish motive. But when the war was over and there was a lot of ex-emy property lying about, somebody had to administer it. The Briton really believed that it was only playing the game to take over the lands in question in the interests of the native population. So the Empire grew to include about one-quarter of the whole earth. And the sons of British aristocrats got good jobs.

In many ways the Germans are the finest people on earth. But they have a weakness in the realm of international politics. They believe that force and force alone is what counts. Hence they can never be expected to cooperate in the rebuilding of a better sort of world until it is made clear to them that they never can hope to gain advantages worth the gaining by forcing the world to indulge in a perpetual armament race broken only by wars and the periods of exhaustion after the wars are over.

I know no other way to accomplish this object than the organization of the democratic nations into a peace union pledged to use an overwhelming volume of force against aggressors.

CAR OF THE FUTURE

From Galt Reporter

From the World Automotive Engineering Congress comes prediction that the car of the future will be tear-drop in form . . . not for the sorrow it causes, but for speed. It will bulge big at the front and taper to a tail at the rear. It seems that our cars nowadays are built wrong end first in shape.

The car of tomorrow will be either "a front drive engine in front," or a rear-drive engine in the rear." Figure it out.

It will be a buttoned-up affair. Door handles will disappear and give place to buttons for entrance into a commodious room with light, movable seats. The roof will be translucent to let in the light, yet kill the glare.

More buttons. A button will regulate the temperature, another button condition the air, another cause a concealed bed to jump out at you. The car can be driven from any seat; the controls may be passed from place to place, something like the remote control of the modern radio.

It was understandable under the old party political system that all questions concerning the general interest should be discussed and passionately debated wherever people came together. The present time, however, is quite different—George Havelka, acting "premier" of what was Czechoslovakia, urging Czechs to "co-operate" with the German regime.

MAINSRING OF ECONOMIC PROGRESS

From a letter of the First National Bank of Boston

The prospect for profit is the mainspring of economic activity and around this has centered our great industrial progress of the past 150 years. The release of individual energy under such a stimulus is the secret of the success of the great American system and the key to progress. Individuals will work hard and long to provide for themselves and their dependents. But take away personal incentive, then the contribution of individuals to the community at large is substantially lowered. This has been demonstrated over and over again in various attempts at collective living. Communism was tried in New England 300 years ago. The Plymouth Colony adopted a plan whereby the colonists "all worked for a common storehouse from which all were fed and clothed." But actual famine stared them in the face as "the emigrants did not labor" and "paralysis was affecting the settlement." In consequence of this situation Governor Bradford permitted the breaking up of the contract and assigned each family its own parcel of land to raise its own food. "The cheerful effort of personal energy succeeded to the sloth of communal interest, and plenty followed." In the course of time the spirit of the Massachusetts Bay pioneers built up a flourishing world commerce and laid the foundation for private enterprise in this country. Under this system the United States with less than 7 per cent of the world's population accounts for nearly as much wealth as all the other countries combined.

WHAT "CACTUS JACK" SAID

From Winnipeg Tribune

King George thinks Vice-President John Nance Garner one of the most interesting men he met during his stay in Washington, and the Vice-President thinks George VI is a "mighty fine fellow," reports the Associated Press.

When Garner told the King goodbye recently he put an arm around his shoulders and told him how much he had enjoyed their talks. Next to President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the King probably talked more to Garner than to anybody else in Washington.

At the White House party, according to authoritative reports, the Texan's eyes twinkled as he aimed a little joke at "the boss," as he calls President Roosevelt. "Why, I believe you have a more democratic system of government over there than we have," he was quoted as telling the King. "The sovereign is a symbol, and when you have a vote of confidence in your legislative body if it goes against the Prime Minister, he resigns, and has to have a general election. But over here he hangs on."

The President and King George joined in the laughter.

BETTER ENGLISH

To the Editor:—I beg to disagree with three answers given in July 31 Better English. "Coyote" should properly be pronounced phonetically as spelled, giving the vowel sounds the Spanish value, viz., "Co" as in "code," "yo" as in "yoke," "et" as in "ten"; three syllables. "Sheik" is misspelled. Spell it "sheikh" and pronounce it "shake" with a somewhat guttural "k" sound. "Congrous" misspelled. Should be spelled congruous.

ROCK GARDEN APPEAL

From Hamilton Spectator

The appeal of the rock garden at the western entrance to our city loses nothing of its force with the passage of time. At this season of the year, when the flowers are in full bloom, it attracts visitors from all parts, who are invariably delighted with what they see. Hamilton is justly proud of what it has been able to make of the quarry; a rocky depression has been turned into a place of beauty.

City Council Topics

Residence Rule Sought

City Endorses Move to U.B.C.M. Convention Regarding Council Members

On a 5 to 3 vote the City Council yesterday afternoon instructed its delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities Convention at Harrison Hot Springs on September 19 and 20, to present a resolution calling for residence by aspirants for municipal office in the municipality in which they contest seats. The proposal met with objection from Alderman S. H. Okell, Alderman R. A. C. Dewar and Alderman B. J. Gadsden. Alderman Okell, who will be delegates to the convention, saw no justice in a proposal which would declare ineligible for municipal office a person who might have a holding in a city worth thousands of dollars, but reside outside its bounds. Alderman Davies, second in the motion introduced by Alderman D. D. McTavish, was its strongest supporter. He told the council he owned property outside the city on which he could build a home and enjoy lower taxes, but declined to take that course because of civic interest.

The council requested the mayor to set a date for the inspection by council members, the sanitary inspector, city solicitor and health officer, of certain premises for which condemnation and demolition orders are sought.

The health committee was asked to deal with a letter from Saanich expressing willingness to co-operate with the city in an appeal to the federal government to open up the Gorge waters. Other Saanich letters, dealing with sewerage matters, were referred to the legislative committee which is preparing a brief for R. W. Mayhew, Victoria M.P., to present to Ottawa. Aldermen Dewar, Gadsden and Davies were added to the committee. Reeve A. G. Lambbrick, of Saanich, will be invited to sit in at the meeting of the committee.

The council approved the Greater Victoria transportation committee's report calling for appointment of municipal clerks and solicitors to consider a joint transportation tender form and report back to the committee. The council was informed any city official might be added to officials' group, secretary of which will be John Baxter.

Letters from Oak Bay and from the B.C. Agricultural Association, containing enclosures from the deputy fire marshal drawing attention to fire hazards at the Willows exhibition grounds, were received and filed. Mayor McGavin explained the matter was one to concern the agricultural association, not the city.

The lands committee was asked to consider a communication from the Chamber of Commerce housing committee requesting municipalities to pass by-laws to implement tax rebate clauses of the federal housing act.

In view of the donation granted the organization to go to Pasadena last December, the council looked with disfavor on a request for a further grant to the pipe band of the First Battalion, Canadian Scottish, to assist it on its way to the San Francisco Exposition. The request was, however, referred to the finance committee.

Letters from former mayors and their relatives, dealing with the return to the city of visitors' books, were acknowledged and filed by the council.

Five resolutions were endorsed by the City Council for presentation to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention, as recommended by the finance committee. They dealt with de-registering of municipal bonds, issuance of duplicate bonds for those that had been lost, a request for power to refuse applications for a trade license on the unanimous vote of the council, power to increase license fees when work or services are being performed outside the city, and power to establish parking meters on streets. The council also supported the committee's recommendation to have Diggon-Hibben Ltd. print the consolidated by-laws at a cost of $599.98, and to send W. W. Rolfe, city electrical inspector, to the International Association of Electrical Inspectors convention in San Francisco from August 14 to 18.

The water board's recommendation to have the city request 240,000 small trees from the provincial nurseries for reforestation of the Goldstream watershed was passed.

Carter Halls Aldinger Co. Ltd. were awarded the contract for paving the section of Pandora Avenue from Fernwood Road to Fort Street, at a gross cost of $21,407, on a motion by Alderman Ed. Williams, chairman of the public works committee. His committee endorsed the procedure, the alderman stated, adding $2,375 of that sum would be expended by the city engineer's department to cover certain work the city would do in connection with the project.

With high praise for his activities at the last session of the body, D. K. Kennedy, city building inspector, was instructed to attend the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Building Officials Conference at Oakland on October 1. "Mr. Kennedy did some good work last year and we'll have the convention here, in all probability, next year," the mayor remarked.

Five deals were put through on the recommendation of the lands committee. They included sales of lots on the west side of Albany Road, north of the Gorge Road, for $125; on the west side of Craigdarroch between Fort Street and Royal Terrace for $300; on the east side of Somerset Street, between Finlayson Street and Tolmie Avenue for $100; and on the west side of Vancouver Street between Kings Road and Bay Street for $175. The council also approved sale of properties on Johnson Street between Government and Oriental Alley and the southeast corner of Johnson and Wharf Streets for $4,500. In the first four cases, purchasers agreed to build.

A motion to make the period of time between municipal nomination days and election days for both by-elections and straight elections coincide will be forwarded to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities Convention. At present, the time between nominations and by-elections in the city is three days, while the period for ordinary elections is one week. The council also endorsed a move to make possible mimeographing of the voter's list instead of printing. At present the list must be printed.

Isamay, Bolston and Holden

were appointed auditors for school board accounts.

Mayor Andrew McGavin does not wish to attend Scottish Day at the Golden Gate International Exposition on August 26, he informed the council when a motion referring to him an invitation to attend the festivities was carried.

The council accepted the invitation of the Vancouver Island Swimming League to attend its British Columbia Championship gala at Thetis Lake on August 26.

Construction of a sewer on Topaz Avenue, is being considered as a project under the municipal works scheme. Alderman Ed. Williams stated in reply to a letter from A. J. Morley requesting such facilities for property he owns on that street.

The public works committee will consider a suggestion from Henry Mowat regarding imposition of a special tax against service stations for the use of sidewalks they utilize as drive-ways to and from their pumps.

Sick pay was granted Robert Redhead on the recommendation of the city engineer.

A no-park strip will be established on Menzies Street, 50 feet north from Niagara.

On a motion from Alderman Davies, the council again decided to approach the Imperial Oil Service Station at the Causeway to see if it will provide a wharf to service yachts and smaller boats in the Inner Harbor.

Mayor Tired of Souvenir Debate

Royal Visit Discussions 'Nonsense,' He Says; Clerk Named Custodian

Mayor Andrew McGavin thinks the discussions regarding preservation of articles used in connection with the royal visit to the City Council Chamber has gone far enough. In no uncertain terms he emphasized that point of view at yesterday afternoon's council meeting in reply to another resolution from Alderman B. J. Gadsden, chief preservationist.

"I think, myself, this is a lot of nonsense," he declared, adding he would have been quite willing to surrender any articles in his possession used during the occasion if so much fuss had not been made over the matter. The "fuss" had caused him to change his mind.

The Gadsden motion provoking the mayor had suggested the appointment of Frank Hunter, city clerk, as custodian of the royal "memorials," and purchase of the table on which had rested the mayor's book when it was signed by the King.

Alderman Ed. Williams asked what type of a construction the city meant to create to house the articles.

"A vault," the mayor replied, noting they would not be seen in such a structure.

"That picture (the one autographed by the King and Queen) is far better hanging up in my house where the customers can see it," the mayor said.

Alderman William stated the public works committee had under consideration construction of suitable archives.

COMPARES BOOKS

The mayor spoke of books of previous chief magistrates, the majority of whom had, according to letters and information received by Alderman B. J. Gadsden, offered to return them. They carried the names of ordinary visitors. The one he had, and he was ready at the right time to show the receipt for it, contained the names of Prince and Princess Chichibu, the President of the United States and his family as well as the King and Queen.

Alderman Gadsden gravely informed the mayor there was "no occasion or dignity to make a farce of these things."

He thought the taboret should be bought and memorials kept.

Alderman Dewar suggested Alderman Gadsden find out how much the table would cost.

The first half of the motion, appointing Frank Hunter the city's royal custodian, passed, and the debate went off at a tangent as the mayor called for restoration of pictures of former mayors and councils taken from the council chamber walls when the room was redecorated for the royal visit.

FLOWER SHOW

The third annual Esquimalt district flower show and country fair will be held tomorrow in the Colwood Hall from 2.30 to 9. The exhibits will include a display of gladioli by Arrowsmith's of Saanichton and an exhibit of heather and heaths by M. D. Jamieson of the Oak Bay nurseries. Alderman D. D. McTavish, president of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, will open the show.

City Sets Site For Airplane Factory Here

Property Adjacent to Macdonald Park Reserved for H. E. Heiser

Late yesterday afternoon a special committee of the City Council moved quickly to provide a site for M. E. Heiser for his proposed factory on the waterfront side of Macdonald Park for the manufacture of airplanes. That action was taken after the council as a whole had endorsed a move to have him establish his plant here.

Under terms of the tentative arrangement made between Mr. Heiser and the special committee the former will be given approximately two blocks, 550 feet by 350 feet bounded by Dock Street, Dallas Road, Niagara Street and Oswego.

The conveyance will be made on a 20-year lease with Mr. Heiser paying a rental of $100 a year for the first three years. The rental plus taxes will be revised at the end of that period.

On his part he undertakes to establish a factory, starting construction within 90 days of the granting of the lease. Mr. Heiser indicated to the committee he would be ready for production within the 90-day period.

The recommendations of the committee will be returned to the council for ratification.

Negotiations were conducted between Mr. Heiser and the committee composed of the mayor and Aldermen R. A. C. Dewar, B. J. Gadsden, W. H. Davies and Ed. Williams. F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, and M. K. Crockett, lands commissioner, attended the session.

LOCATION SOUGHT

The matter came before the council in a letter from Mr. Heiser, in which he stated he was seeking a location and favored that adjacent to Macdonald Park or one at Elk Lake. He asked for a 99-year lease at $500 a year with freedom from payments for the first two years.

Production, he stated, would follow within 90 days of the transfer of the land.

Mayor McGavin declared the proposal should be encouraged and referred the matter to the lands committee for attention.

Alderman Dewar explained Mr. Heiser had been here 18 months ago and had been taken to Sidney to study sites there. The alderman thought Elk Lake would be an ideal set-up. Water rights in that connection and the possibility of Saanich taxing city holdings provided an obstacle, he said.

Alderman Davies stated he had contacted Mr. Heiser on Friday and had persuaded him to stay in the city over the week-end to continue negotiations. Unless immediate action was taken, he thought Mr. Heiser might go elsewhere.

In the absence of Aldermen Archie Wills and Alderman John Worthington, Aldermen Williams and Davies were added to the lands committee to undertake negotiations with Mr. Heiser.

Oppose Beer Parlor Move

Would Lower Moral Tone, Citizens' Committee Members Claim

An organization meeting to name a committee for the opposing of the move to licence beer parlors in Victoria was held last night in the Metropolitan United Church schoolroom.

The committee, to be known as the Citizens' Committee, named Prof. E. S. Farr as chairman and the following officers: H. A. Renfree, secretary; A. E. Mallett, George McGregor, A. S. Denny and G. H. Stevens, finance committee; D. M. McCall, J. Gibson and Rev. N. J. Crees, publicity; J. O. Welsh, transportation; F. J. Schroeder, Dr. Olga Jardine, Mrs. George Guy, Mrs. M. C. Wilkinson and Adjutant Charles Watt, executive.

The meeting opposed beer parlors on the grounds that licensed premises were close enough to the city when they were kept in Esquimalt, and it was felt the licensing of premises would lower the moral tone in the city. Sub-committee will report to another general meeting next Monday evening.

Concert at Beacon Hill Park Tomorrow

An interesting program of orchestral and vocal numbers has been arranged for the concert to be given in Beacon Hill Park, Wednesday evening at 8, by the Victoria Philharmonic Orchestra Society, under the leadership of Alfred Prescott.

The assisting artists for this occasion will be Miss Winnifred Applegate and Thomas Crabbe. Both these vocalists are well known to Victoria audiences, having appeared in previous open-air concerts at Beacon Hill.

The following is the program of orchestral numbers: Overture—Marriage of Figaro (Mozart). First Movement from the Unfinished Symphony (Schubert). Selections from the "Student Prince" (Romberg). Three Dances from "Henry VIII" (German).

Special arrangements for sound amplification from the bandstand have been made, assuring all who attend an opportunity to hear the music under the best possible circumstances.

This is the second of three evening concerts to be given in Beacon Hill Park under the sponsorship of the B.C. Electric Railway Company. The third will take place August 23.

Will Consider Arena Request

Forum Committee's Application for Further Vote Received

Proposals of F. E. Winslow and other members of the special forum committee to have the City Council hold another vote on the matter of raising a loan to undertake construction of an arena were heard by the City Council in committee yesterday afternoon.

The suggestions advanced by Mr. Winslow, together with a brief prepared by him, were referred to the council for later consideration.

Mr. Winslow, addressing the meeting, referred to the former plebiscite on the question when it was thought the money might be secured through the federal Municipal Improvements Assistance Act. Costs had been scaled down since that date. He suggested the council seek the construction as an undertaking under the new federal-provincial proposal of contributing labor costs to projects of a civic nature. He suggested the Pandora Blanshard site be used for the proposal and a loan of $125,000 be raised on a 20-year 4 per cent bond issue. Costs to the city would be approximately $9,200 a year, or about 85 cents in additional taxation on every $3,000 holding in Victoria.

Mr. Winslow attached to his brief copies of financial statements of similar arena-auditoriums throughout Canada, stating revenues secured elsewhere indicated the project would be self-supporting.

W. C. Moresby, K.C., described the success with which local lacrosse interests had met since they started operations at the Willows Sports Centre. With a location in the downtown district, he thought revenue from that sport would be doubled.

In reply to question, Mr. Moresby stated use of the boxes at Athletic Park, Beacon Hill and Victoria West had virtually been abandoned except for practice.

Following Mr. Moresby's statements, Mr. Winslow asked when the forum project could be given consideration.

"As soon as possible," Mayor Andrew McGavin replied. The question would be studied by the city comptroller before any action was taken, he said.

Victorian Dies In Plane Crash

Leslie Phillips Of Sevenoaks Road Killed in England

Leslie Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Phillips, Sevenoaks Road, was killed yesterday in the crash of a Blenheim bomber near Eastbourne, Sussex, according to advices received by his family from the British Air Office.

Two other R.A.F. men were killed in the crash.

Phillips was 19 years of age and enlisted in the Royal Air Force in 1938 as a wireless telegraphist. He had been stationed at Wattishaw, Suffolk.

Spend Night High And Dry On Rock

Bob Whyte, Rendall Street, Victoria's well-known amateur sports enthusiast, and his fishing companion, J. E. Page, spent Sunday night and most of Monday high and dry on a rock near Deep Cove but were back in the city today none the worse for their experience.

Mr. Whyte and Mr. Page were returning Sunday evening in Mr. Page's boat Charuja, from a visit to Galliano Island and when off James Point, near Deep Cove, they struck the rock.

"It was one we certainly didn't see on the chart and if we had been 10 feet on either side we would never have hit it," Mr. Whyte said. The boat was undamaged but they had to stay on the rock until 7 last night when they floated off with high tide. They spent their time fishing and sleeping after ascertaining the boat was in no danger.

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

Victorian Weds Port Alberni Bride

Miss Hilda Clarke
Married Sunday
To Frederick J. Patton

Of interest to the many Victoria friends of the bridegroom was the pretty wedding solemnized at All Saints Church, Port Alberni, on Sunday morning at 9.30 when Hilda Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clarke of Nanaimo, became the bride of Frederick John Patton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Patton, 1154 Old Esquimalt Road, Victoria.

The church was beautifully decorated by girl friends of the bride with standard baskets of gladioli, golden glow, phlox, Shasta daisies and ferns. Rev. Glen Stevenson performed the ceremony, and Mr. J. Howitt was at the organ. As the bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the congregation sang the hymn, "The Voice That Breath'd O'er Eden," and during the signing of the register, Mrs. F. McLean sang "O Promise Me."

The bride was a radiant picture in her lovely gown of white starched chiffon over heavy white satin, with short puff sleeves, the yoke inset with lace, and the low neckline outlined with a tiny ruffle of lace. The filmy veil of silk-embroidered malines net fell in very full folds from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lily of the valley and white roses.

FIVE ATTENDANTS

There were five attendants. Mrs. M. Clark, aunt of the bride, was the matron of honor in a graceful princess gown of yellow chiffon, with bolero applied in yellow velvet. Her hat, like that of the two bridesmaids, was a large crownless picture hat of mohair and spider-web straw, to match the gown, with bands of velvet ribbon crossing the head and tied in large bows at the back. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Maralla, wearing primrose silk net, and Miss Mabel Olander, cousin of the bride, in ciel blue silk net, the frocks made alike with lace godets inset in the very full skirts, the bodices pleated horizontally and finished with a lace bolero. They wore gold lockets and all carried bouquets of gladioli in their lace-gloved hands.

Little Marilyn and Joan Clark, cousins of the bride, were flower-girls, in dainty foot-length frocks of pale blue net, with puffed sleeves, shirring at the waist and ruching at the neckline and hem. Their blue pique bonnets were trimmed with fresh flowers and they wore net mitts and carried old-fashioned posies.

Mr. George Harris was best man and Messrs. Richard Hilton and Leonard Robinson were ushers.

RECEPTION AT HOME
After the ceremony a largely-attended reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were effectively decorated with flowers. Mrs. Clark received the guests in a gown of blue lace, with navy hat and accessories, assisted by Mrs. Patton of Victoria, mother of the bridegroom, handsomely gowned in aqua blue, with a wine-colored hat and accessories, both wearing corsage bouquets of roses.

As the bride cut the three-tiered wedding cake, at the flower-decorated refreshment table, Capt. C. McLean Fry proposed the toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton left later for their honeymoon, the bride wearing a navy blue tailored skirt with white pique jacket and vestee, edged with rickrack braid, with which she wore a navy hat trimmed with white and a smart blue topcoat. On their return they will reside in Port Alberni.

Stomach Muff and Stem Torso New Style Decree

Paris Now Goes In For Anatomical Fashion Freakiness

By ALICE MAXWELL
Associated Press Foreign Staff
PARIS (AP) — Anatomical fashions took first place last week when Paris unleashed winter styles.

Authorities decreed the stem torso and the "stomach muff." They stressed noosed necks and squeezed waists, bulged hips and hobbled ankles.

The new muffs padded stomachs with fur by day and with fabric by night. Reversed treatments were seen in 1880 bustles with fur bows and loops for coat backs, and puffs, bows and flowers for evening bustles. Hips puffed out extravagantly in conjunction with bustle backs to form paniers and draping for evening models.

The stem torso tightened the waist and molded figures upward in a suave line achieved by hidden-boning. Bulging hips were hobble skirt accompaniments. For these styles, crisp evening stuffs ballooned out over the hips and drew in tight around the ankles. The resulting "cutaway" lines up the front showed the legs sometimes to the knees.

"CURATE" COLLARS

Other anatomical details surrounded necks in the form of lingerie ruchings, chin high, in starched linen "curate" collars. New "double swing" styles in coats and dresses featured tight-fitting, bell-shaped bodices leading to extravagantly swirled fullness below the hips.

Not only were frocks boned for the stem torso silhouettes, but jackets of suits showed stitched bonings and were fashioned with steel corset clasps. Full-skirted evening dresses opened in front to show silk trousers and front-slit afternoon dresses displayed satin knickers.

Wide-skirted evening gowns repeated last year's romantic successes, and straight lines showed up in Chinese tunic styles, draped lines in Grecian.

At the close of a pleasant evening of dancing, presentations were made to the guests of honor. Prizes were won by Miss E. Dopp and Len Godfrey, and Miss Iris Newell and Walter Graham for spot dance.

Miss Margaret Ferguson, who is to be married next week to Mr. H. A. Thomson, was complimented at a tea and cup and saucer shower given by Mrs. Harold C. Parfitt, Blackwood Avenue. The reception rooms were decorated with masses of snapdragons and gladioli. The bride-to-be was given a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses. The gifts were concealed in a huge cup and saucer, cleverly made and decorated with pink and white crepe paper. This stood on the tea-wagon which Mrs. Parfitt wheeled in during the afternoon. Vocal solos by Mrs. G. Gillies, to Mrs. G. H. E. Green's piano accompaniment, were enjoyed. Mrs. D. M. Thompson presided at the tea table, which was covered with a Madeira cloth and for which a rosebowl of larkspur in pastel shades formed an attractive centrepiece. Miss Daisy Henderson and Miss Vera Parfitt assisted in serving. The invited guests were Mesdames M. Ferguson, D. M. Thompson, J. B. Ferguson, O. M. Cogswell, R. L. Scoble, Elliott, A. Armstrong, Montgomery (New York), Bancroft, K. Turner, W. J. Russell, P. W. Marchant, G. Gillies, G. H. E. Green, J. T. Maclean (Montreal), W. Dinsmore, and Misses Margaret and Florence Ferguson, Vera Parfitt, Daisy Henderson and Queenie Shields.

Mr. Harry Crane has been on a motor trip to the interior of the province and on his way back to Victoria is the guest of Major and Mrs. Gus Lyons, Vancouver.

The annual office staff picnic of the B.C. Electric Railway Company will be held tomorrow at Fulford Harbor. To enable members of the staff to attend the outing the Douglas Street store will be closed all day, while the Langley Street general offices will be open for the payment of accounts and other routine business from 8.30 to 5.

The meeting was opened with the singing of the club song and the reading of the aims and objects by the president, Mrs. R. McVie. Three new members were welcomed and the usual routine business soon concluded, all bills incurred during July being ordered paid.

The social convener, R. White, gave the report of activities during the past month and turned in $10.60 to the treasurer. Members and friends are asked to note that there will be no card parties or socials until further notice. The September meeting will be held on Monday, September 11, as the first Monday is Labor Day. All conveners gave their usual reports, the sick-visiting convener reporting 32 visits during July. Mrs. J. Maynard was elected as the new convener of the dramatic group.

At the conclusion of business, the meeting adjourned and a social time was spent, the tea table being presided over by Mrs. D. M. Thomson and Mrs. O. H. Cogswell.

Woman to Enter Air Race for King's Cup

LONDON (CP) — Mona Friedlander, 25-year-old millionaire's daughter who has aided in anti-aircraft tests by flying nightly over London as a "target," has entered the King's Cup air race on September 2. She is the only woman entrant who will fly her own plane.

Miss Friedlander is captain of the Englishwomen's ice hockey team here. She also rides, plays tennis and is an expert skier.

"But flying is the thing I like best in the world," she says, "and there is no romance in my life."

Girls to Compete at Lumbermen's Sport

LONGVIEW, Wash. (CP) — Girls will birl with the best of them in the Lumberman's Exposition to be held here August 11 to 13. Two years ago members of the fair sex invaded the sport. Four daughters of woodmen entered the championships pitting their balance and nimble footness against the hardened lumberjacks whose life's work as well as sport is long-rolling.

The birlers use three 12-foot logs of 14, 16 and 18 inches in diameter. Contestants start on the biggest log, one on either end, and try to shake each other off. They get the log rolling in one direction and suddenly one of the men attempts to stop it by suddenly snubbing it. They may start it twirling in the other direction.

Sunshine Camp Mothers Entertained By Club

An entertainment party sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Victoria visited the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp last week.

The varied program presented was greatly enjoyed by all the mothers and children and staff. The Misses Jessie and Dorothy Pollock performed Scotch dances to the accompaniment of the bagpipes. Moving pictures of Their Majesties' visit to Victoria, and comedies, featuring "Popeye" and "Our Gang" were shown by P. C. Rogers. The magician, E. R. Crockford, delighted the audience with sleight-of-hand and other tricks. Ice cream and candies, the gift of the club, brought the successful evening to a close.

New Government Minister Woman

Florence Horsburgh, M.P., Honored for Outstanding Service

LONDON — The first woman member of the National government has been appointed. She is Miss Florence Horsburgh, middle-aged Conservative M.P. for Dundee, who now becomes parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Health—the first woman to become a minister for eight years.

Her salary jumps from £600 a year as an ordinary M.P. to £1,500 and she moves from the back to the front bench.

It is eight years since Miss Horsburgh first entered Parliament. Until then her only official recognition was the M.B.E. given to her for canteen work during the war.

In this Parliament Miss Horsburgh has had some outstanding successes. She succeeded in having passed her bill dealing with "Red Biddy," the object of which was to prevent the drinking of methylated spirits in Scotland. A practice had been to mix the spirits with a cheap kind of red wine.

A much more controversial and complicated bill which she introduced more recently and piloted through was her measure to tighten up the law relating to the adoption of children, with the special object of preventing children being sent abroad to be adopted.

Meanwhile the London County Council is looking for a perfect woman—one with an attractive personality who will be able to banish boredom among 200 women patients and organize social affairs to keep them happy.

At the Princess Mary Convalescent Home at Cliftonville, Kent, they feel that at present many of the patients are bored and their only amusement is "gossip," so a woman social officer is to be appointed to change all this.

"There are 200 women in the Home," an L.C.C. official said, and apart from walks and reading there is not sufficient recreation for them. The nurses often organize amusements but they work and it is unfair to encroach on their spare time. The woman recreation officer will devote her time to making the women happy. She will have to organize the library, plan socials, games and dances."

Astronomer Here On Routine Trip

R. M. Stewart, Dominion astronomer from Ottawa, arrived in town yesterday for a few days on routine business. He is staying at the Empress Hotel but will spend most of his time here at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain.

With reference to present position of planet Mars, Mr. Stewart explains that astronomers in Canada are doing little in observations.

Although the planet was so near to the earth, Canada was too far north for any serious study. The best observations were being made in South Africa, for example, where Mars was directly above in the sky.

"I don't know anything about the meteor which fell in the west other than what I have read in the newspapers," he said.

Mr. Stewart was in Ottawa at the time and has not followed up on the study of the phenomenon.

Paris, Aug. 8.—It was officially announced today that British troops under the direction of French officers, are disembarking on French soil.

Brussels, Aug. 8.—Soldiers returning here report that the trenches around Leige are literally filled with the bodies of dead Germans.

Paris, Aug. 8.—An official statement issued today says that German mobilization posters placed on walls in the towns of Vic and Moyenvic, in Alsace-Lorraine, prove the French contention that the war was premeditated on the part of Germany.

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—Heavy firing 20 miles south of here led authorities to believe that H.M.S. Rainbow from Esquimalt had met the German cruiser Leipzig and was engaging her in battle.

Volunteers from Victoria and island points are pouring in at the recruiting stations. It is expected that very shortly the limit will be reached in military strength here.

For the first time, Mr. and Mrs. John Nagle, who shared in the $500,000 Charles Millar will award last spring, brought together Mrs. Nagle's five sisters, her brother and parents and the 22 children of the various Nagles. The other families who were in the Millar will contest, the Timlecks and the Smiths, came along for the jamboree as well. The music

Luncheon Meeting Held Yesterday At Growers' Winery

Members of the Gyro Club learned something of the wine making industry yesterday when they held their weekly luncheon meeting at the Growers' Winery, Quadra Street, and were shown over the plant.

During the luncheon Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P., on behalf of the company, told of the work that was being done. He said that the products manufactured were sold all across Canada. The industry meant a lot, not only to Victoria and the island, but to parts of the mainland including the Okanagan.

Neil Lamont, manager of the winery, and Bruce Lamont showed the members the workings of the plant. The club was shown the converting of loganberries into wine and other products manufactured.

Bert Challoner, president of the Gyros, moved a vote of thanks to the winery on behalf of the members.

Modern Etiquette

1. When a man and woman are in a cocktail lounge, should she give her order directly to the waiter or tell her escort what she wants to drink?

2. To be polite, must she have a drink every time her escort orders one?

3. May she sit at the bar with him if she likes—rather than at a table?

4. If a girl takes out her own cigarette case, should she offer the man a cigarette?

5. To show good manners, is it necessary for a man to order the same drink the woman with him orders?

What would you do if—
You are with a crowd who wants to stop at a cocktail bar, and you do not like to drink—(a) Feel you must in order to be a good sport? (b) Order some soft drink, without making a point of your order? (c) Say you don't want anything?

Answers
1. Tell her escort.

Long Pipe Rolls Down Mountain, Kills Two

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—An 1,100-foot section of four-inch gas pipe became a roaring whip of death yesterday when it tore down a mountain at a speed workers said was nearly a mile a minute.

The freak accident cost two lives. Two other persons, critically injured, may die.

Killed when the welded pipe shot through her automobile was Mrs. Bess Arnold Ross, 46, Long Beach, Calif.

Grant Allison, 71, who drove to the scene, dropped dead of a heart attack when he saw Mrs. Ross' body.

Mrs. Ross' housekeeper, Ann McDonald, 25, riding in the automobile, was perhaps fatally injured. Henry Dutton, a workman, was tossed 100 feet into the air by the pipe. His back was broken and physicians say he, too, may die.

Social Nudists to Hold Convention

All Will Wear Hats And Shoes; For 'Spiritual Freedom'

By SAM JACKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
SOQUEL, Calif. (AP)—There's only one thing about the convention to be held here August 12 to 14 that would strike you as odd—nobody will be wearing clothes.

It will be a meeting of the American Sunbathing Association, which has for its object the fostering of that "commonplace, normal and delightful way of living—social nudism."

No clothing won't be strictly true, however. Most nudists still have to wear shoes; it's the rare one whose feet are so tough he can travel barefoot. And the women make a concession to the world of normal conditions. When the sun is very bright they guard their facials by wearing big straw hats.

A special feature of members' hobbies: Photographs, movies, paintings, pottery, wrought iron, and examples of such collectors' items as cacti and coins, will mark this convention.

"It seems natural that nudism and such interests should go together," said the exhibit's chairman. "Those who step forth without clothing gain a spiritual freedom from self-gratification by means of money display, such as in clothes and automobiles. This fits in naturally with creative forms of self-expression."

Nearly all the 40 camps, in many parts of the United States, which are members of the association, will be represented. Officers say attendance will run into the hundreds.

Presiding will be portly Louis P. Clark, successful manufacturer, ordained minister, and now in retired life the head of the American nudists.

Host camp is the Sun Tanners, a thriving organization serving the San Francisco Bay area. It has a large, heavily-wooded acreage at the end of a road in the Santa Cruz Mountains, with large dining and social halls, a swimming pool, tennis and badminton courts and many cabins. James F. Curi is manager.

All persons in the camp are addressed by their first names, but this does not imply "undue familiarity." The rule is intended merely to protect anyone who may prefer not to link nudism and his full name.

Actually, officers say, very few members are touchy on the subject.

Tempting sleepy appetites is just one of the

THREE THINGS YOUR BREAKFAST MUST DO...

1. Wake your system up!
2. Keep you going until lunch!
3. Give you a head start with Kellogg's!

RESULT

KELLOGG'S CORN FLAKES NOW COST YOU LESS THAN ONE PENNY FOR A BIG SERVING

KELLOGG'S unswerving policy has been to give maximum value of quality products.

At the same time, it has long followed a consistent course of bringing its story into Canadian homes... from Halifax to Vancouver... through Canadian daily newspapers.

The newspapers of Canada have been an immense force in making the name "Kellogg's" one of the best and the most trusted names in Canadian homes.

Indeed, they have done far more than that!

By greatly increasing the demand for Kellogg products, they have made it possible for the Kellogg Company to introduce increasingly better methods of cereal manufacture... higher and higher quality products... ever more sanitary packaging, which brings these cereals oven-fresh to Canadian kitchens.

With all this emphasis on quality, the Kellogg Company has kept down prices to the consumer so that—amazing as it may seem—Kellogg's Corn Flakes, Canada's most popular breakfast, actually cost less than one penny for a generous serving!

JOHN E. REARDON says club owners would help umpires by making the noble athletes pay their own fines.

Beans Reardon does not believe in giving baseball players the bum's rush.

"I always let a player squawk if he wants to," asserts the highly competent National League umpire. "You can't take that away from the game."

"But after he's had his say I tell him to get back where he belongs and play ball."

Reardon declares that when he broke in 14 years ago if the umpire behind the plate was wrong on as many as five decisions he believed he had done a good job.

And what was more important, the players felt the same way about it.

"Now if we miss two close ones the players think they have a right to climb all over our necks," smiles Reardon.

Beans considers the National League rule making a combatant liable to a five-day automatic suspension if he pushes or otherwise ruffles an umpire's blue coat a poor one.

A club is weakened when a good player is chased. That is why the late John McGraw did all his own umpire batting.

"Once I had a row with one of the New York Giants," recalls Reardon, "and I warned him that if he got much rougher I'd not only chase him but I'd recommend a fine."

"McGraw overheard the argument and told the player he'd double the fine if the player got run."

"McGraw often enforced fines. 'He used to tell the Giants, 'If you want to fight, fight with the guys on the other bench.'"

"Players are not afraid of getting run out and fined these days. They don't have to pay the fine, anyway. The clubs pay it. So there is no restraint behind squawks at umpires. If a player is chased, you may rest assured that he has overstepped the bounds. Umpires don't like to get the reputation of being habitual chasers."

"The other day I was working behind the plate and one of the Pittsburgh players said something I didn't like under his breath. I told him to get out of my line. He said, 'What'd you say?' in a tough voice, and he says, 'I was only laughing, Beans, I was only laughing.' So I let him off with a warning."

"A year ago I ran a player out for complaining about a decision at first base. It was all right for him to squawk because it was close, but then I says to him, 'I'm going to walk down the foul line, and if you follow me you're out.' I walked down and he followed me and I gave him the grand exit."

"Later everybody said I should not have chased him because that was what he was looking for, and I was playing right into his hands. Maybe I did, at that."

"It used to be that the players felt bitter only toward the opposition. Now they hop on the umpires. They're nice fellows, most of them, and after the game is over you can bet they feel sorry for some of the things they said, and they'll tell you, too."

But something's come over ball players on the field these days that forces umpires to clamp down a little harder than usual.

Umpires must let the athletes know that they're still calling the plays.

Major Local Tournament Will Open at Victoria Club Courts August 19

Victoria's largest local tennis event, the city championships, will start at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club August 19, and continue until September 2. To local players it contains the most interest, for it gives the weaker player a chance to get the most for his entrance fee. The losers in the first two rounds of any event are placed in flights, and the championships continue with two complete tournaments at one and the same time.

Because of the lateness of the season it will be necessary to conduct the meet along more strict lines than last year as it will be a task to finish the tournament on time. Labor Day week-end is about the deadline for tournaments in B. C. Players not able to play before 6 in the evening will have to hold themselves in readiness for play any day the committee wishes to schedule them, and will be called on to play the first week-end. It will be necessary to complete the first two rounds as quickly as possible to allow the flights to commence, and also to allow some of the players to compete in the Salt Spring Island championships, which start August 23.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS

Commander J. C. I. Edwards will be the defending champion in the men's singles, and with the improvement shown by the younger section, as represented by Henry Bennett, Walter Knotts, Jack McPherson, Jack Inglis, Curley Harbinson, plus the opposition of the old guard, Reg Corfield, last year's runner up, Marsh Gordon, Eric McCallum and Carl Brand, keen competition is looked for.

The women's event will be a wide open event. Mrs. Ross Hocking, last year's winner, will not defend her crown. Mrs. J. C. I. Edwards, club champion, defeated by Paula Merritt, at South Cowichan, can expect her strong opposition from the above young lady, who has improved beyond expectation. Others who are likely to provide competition, are Mrs. R. B. Mathews from the B. C. Electric Club, recent winner of the Esquimalt singles title, Mrs. Allan Le Marquand, from Armadale, Kewpie Unsworth, Peggy MacDonald, Gladys McCall, all from Victoria.

Reg Corfield and Ron Bladen won the men's doubles last year, representing the Victoria Club. This year it is expected that many young players from other clubs will enter this event. C. P. R. Hillcrest and Armadale have some strong pairs, who should enter for the experience. Jack Wilkinson and Cam Brown, from C.P.R., Harbinson and Viv Hicks, from Hillcrest, Dave Bird and Dennis Humphries, from Armadale, Bill Dunbar and Bert Flett, Victoria, McCallum and Gordon, Bennett and Hocking, are all likely teams to watch.

With the women's events such wide open struggles, it is hard to state who the pairs will be. This also pertains to the mixed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hocking will be in charge of the tournament and information and particulars can be secured by phoning E 2342.

New Method Laundry and Longshoremen Meet in First of Five-game Series

The opening game of the best-of-five series for the lower island softball championship between Manager Jim Lackie's Victoria Longshoremen and Manager Bert Simpson's New Method Laundry nines will be played this evening at the Athletic Park starting at 6.15.

Longshoremen finished the season on top of the standings and Laundrymen finished in the runner-up spot. Laundrymen last week were busy eliminating Douglas Tire Shop in the preliminary series while the stevedores were idle.

A Peden Cup knockout game last night resulted in Chinese Recreation Centre taking the measure of the Times, 6 to 3, at Central Park.

In a women's league game, Hill's Purities took the measure of Diamondettes, 46 to 7. Freda Effa led the sluggers with three home runs to her credit, while May Medler, Joyce Foster and Peggy Sigman clouted a pair of circuit drives apiece.

Jockey South Dies From Fall

Well-known Rider Fatally Injured During Pile-up At Lansdowne Track

VANCOUVER (CP)—Jockey Walter South, one of the outstanding riders on British Columbia tracks this season, was thrown when his mount fell over another horse in the third race at Lansdowne Park yesterday, and died an hour later in hospital from head injuries.

Under contract to Drigger Brothers, of New Mexico, South was riding Bellos, owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby, of Vancouver, for whom he also rode regularly. Red Rock Farm's Act Two, ridden by Jockey Griffin, stumbled and fell on a turn and South was unable to pull up his second favorite to avoid the pile-up.

South, who scored a victory in the first race on yesterday's program aboard Rich Boy, was a veteran of United States racing circuits, and campaigned in Canada for the first time last year in Winnipeg.

He piloted Jeff's Pride, owned by the Driggers, in every start this year, establishing two records at Brighouse Park here and winning the British Columbia Handicap at Longacres in Seattle a few weeks ago. He was scheduled to ride the horse in the $10,000 Longacre Mile later this month.

South's widow was expected to be released from another hospital here later yesterday after recovering from an illness. Besides Mrs. South, the jockey is survived by three children.

Maki Is Greatest

Latest Finnish Track Star Can Better Record Times of Famous Nurmi

LONDON (AP)—Perhaps the greatest runner in the world today is Talisto Maki, wiry-legged Finn who grew up worshipping the fabulous Nurmi and now finds "I can beat his marks but I feel bad when I do it."

A dot went on at White City Stadium in the international track meet yesterday. The United States team won the event. Three British records were cracked and two tied. And Maki ran—coolly, wisely and strongly.

"I have run since I was a boy. I do not know anything else," he said. "Always Nurmi was my idol. When I found I could approach and beat his marks I was scared. It was like grimacing in the face of your father."

This lean, hard lad holds records at two miles, three miles, 5,000 and 10,000 metres.

History Favors Leaders

Experts Have It That Yanks and Reds Heavy Favorites for Baseball Pennants

It's no longer a question of baseball, it's a matter of history—about the New York Yanks and the Cincinnati Reds winning their respective league titles, that is.

An unnamed hero has pored through history's pages—going clear back to the days of mustache cups and horseshair furniture—to find out that no team that once during the season held a 10-game lead is even beaten for the title.

Caught, yes; passed, perhaps, but never nosed out, no matter how hot the pace set by those clubs who try to scoop up in September what they missed in May.

So all the tears shed for what was the worst home stand of the year for the Yankees, or for the woes of Bill McKechnie, are crocodile of the deepest dye.

However general that knowledge may be, it certainly hasn't slowed any of the other teams up—indicating, maybe that the boys are not well versed in history, or just don't care. One of the teams in that category is Brooklyn Dodgers, still fighting for a second-division berth.

Larry MacPhail masterminded them into a new attendance record and he may not have results this year but certainly will in years to come. You'll recall it was this same MacPhail who put the Reds on the trail they are now treading.

Last night, in the National League's only game, the Dodgers whipped Boston Bees 7 to 6 as 27,950 Flatbushers watched Dixie Walker make his Brooklyn debut. He did it up properly, singling in the 10th with two out to give the Dodgers another in their series of extra-long night battles.

The win put the Dodgers in fifth place, and gave Vito Tamulis his fifth victory against four setbacks.

In the only other game played in the majors, another newcomer, Lou Boudreau, up from Buffalo, sparked Cleveland Indians to a 6 to 5 win over St. Louis Browns.

Two Rinks Have Perfect Records In Bowls Event

Athletics Drop Playoff Game

Pitzer and Nex Outright Favorites 7 to 5 in Baseball Series Opener

With "fight" written all over them all the way, Pitzer and Nex baseballers emerged victorious over the Athletics by a score of 7 to 5, in the opening battle of a best-of-seven Rithet Cup playoff series at the Athletic Park last evening.

Although the innings were slow—only six were played—a large crowd left the enclosure seemingly satisfied with performances turned in by both squads.

Athletics took the first curtain call in the second inning when they collected three of their five markers. Casey, Athletics' third sacker, started the ball rolling on one of first-sacker Morgan's few and far between errors. Acres then walked given, sending Casey to second. Lindsay popped out to third, and Pollard stepped into one that sailed into left field. Jones binged the catch, chalking up an error against himself, and the bases were loaded. Pitcher Ray Maitland drove one into the outfield scoring Casey and Given. Catcher Kuwabara singled to score Pollard. The inning closed at this point—the score 3 to 0, with two hits and two errors.

MADE IT 3 TO 3

It was then that the fighting spirit of the gammen came to the fore. They opened the third inning by making the count 3 to 3. Jones walked and moved to second on a single by Harris. Pitcher Maitland began to appear slightly the worse for worrying. He had another single chalked against him by Lorne Murray, with Jones scoring. Harris moving to third. Murray stole second and Morgan walked. Art Chapman stepped up to the plate and scored Harris on a sacrifice. Murray moved to third.

Maitland was tense and pulled an unforgivable error in hitting the stands with the last pitch of an intentional pass of Johnny Murray. Brother Lorne walked home. There were two down at this stage of the encounter. The bags were loaded. Maitland came through with a strike-out of Acres and the drive was over.

At the start of the fifth Maitland went haywire again. Two men were down. Nex made first safe on an error by the pitcher and Cosier walked for the fourth to walk. Acres went to first after being hit by the ball and the bases were loaded.

THIRD-SACKER BELL

Gordie Bell tore the heart right out of the Athletics' squad with a winging third smash to centre field. Maitland went to the showers. Sonny Walker went to the mound, with mar-ger Tommy Restell taking over first base duties.

Then the Athletics put on the gloves and things began to look good. Kuwabara walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Chuck Restell took the four-ball count and Walker singled, scoring Kuwabara. Walker went to second on an error by the second baseman and Restell took over third. Restell was forced at the plate and Walker went to third on a bunt by Casey. Casey got himself caught between first and second and in the scramble, Walker managed to get home. This brought the Athletics up within one run, the score, 6 to 5.

The final run for the gammen came the next and final inning. Morgan went to first on an error by Casey at third and managed to make third himself on wild pitches. He scored when Walker lost control. Athletics were not able to do anything in the last half of the sixth.

Scores by innings:

R. H. E.
P. & N. 0 3 0 3 1-7 6 4
Athletics 0 3 0 2 0-5 5 2

Batteries: Acres and Cosier; R. Maitland, Walker, and Kuwabara.

The two clubs will meet in the second game of the series tomorrow night at the Athletic Park starting at 6.15. Lloyd Cann will be on the mound for the Athletics and Les Leonard is scheduled to go topside for Pitzer and Nex.

TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Fred Apostoli, 164, of San Francisco, recognized in some quarters as middleweight champion of the world, defeated Mohammed Fahmy, 164½, of Cairo, Egypt, on a technical knockout last night in the third round of a nontitle 10-round fight.

The Egyptian stopped boxing and raised his right hand and told the referee he wanted to stop.

LACROSSE SQUADS BATTLE TONIGHT

Another keen struggle is anticipated this evening when Conservatives and Alert Service box lacrosse squads face-off in the box-enclosed centre floor in the Willows Park sports auditorium.

At the present time the Alerts are five games behind the leading James Bay crew and the Tories are in the cellar position, one game behind the servicemen.

In their last meeting the Conservatives came out on the long end of a 14 to 13 score but not before one of the stiffest fights of the season. Alerts were beaten last Friday but intend to put the cap on their losing streak tonight.

The feature game will get underway at 8.45. Times Terriers and Foul Bay, midge teams, will meet in the preliminary.

Geese Make Friends With Barnyard Animals

In a barnyard where geese are kept, a visitor—especially a small boy or girl—may be "chased" by a goose. Geese are likely to stretch out their necks and hiss, making them seem rather fearful, though they do not often hurt anyone.

Goose with polo pony friends

Barnyard geese are noted for the friendships they make with other animals. A British nobleman, Lord Lilford, once owned a goose which grew friendly with a crane. The birds would feed together, and all through the day would stay not more than a few yards apart.

Another goose became the "mascot" of a stable of polo ponies. This goose made a special friend of one of the ponies. In telling of the case, Mr. Lewis Spence states that the pony and goose "would go with each other to the fields and feed together in silent friendship."

Our barnyard geese have come from wild geese which were tamed long ago. The ancient Egyptians kept geese, and the birds were common on farms in Europe during the Middle Ages, the same as they are today.

Geese are sent to the market to be sold for food. Their flesh is very rich, too rich for the taste of many persons. Yet the goose is popular in some homes for winter holiday feasts.

More than a dozen kinds of wild geese are known. Among them are the graylag geese which used to nest freely in the marshes of the British Isles. They seldom breed in Great Britain today, except in northern Scotland.

Wild graylag geese are believed to have been the ancestors of most of the geese in barnyards of Europe and North America. In Asia the domestic geese seem to have come mainly from wild Chinese geese.

The most common of the wild geese on this continent are "Canada geese," also called "big gray geese" and "long-necked geese." They breed chiefly in Canada, great numbers of them making their nests around Hudson Bay and in the Yukon valley.

In the early autumn flocks of Canada geese head southward. They are noted for their custom of forming a V when they migrate. The leader, almost always a gander, flies at the front, and we may say he makes "the point" of the V.

"Honk, honk!" cry the geese as they fly, and the sound may remind us of the old-fashioned automobile horn. The birds go to southern parts of the United States to spend the winter. Many of them winter in Florida.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

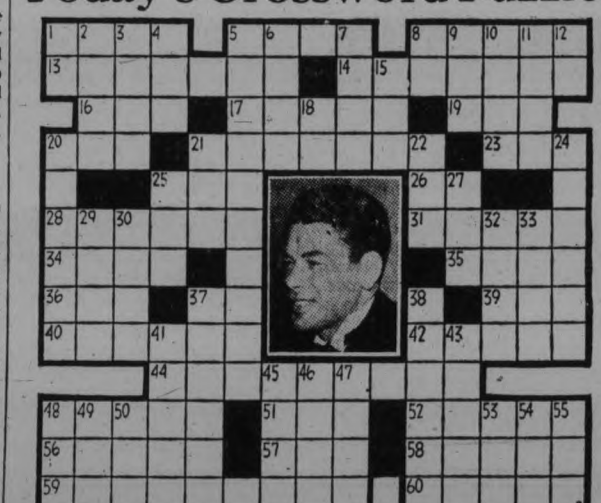

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a 19-year-old girl with a good job and wholly independent of my family financially. This is my problem: I am not permitted to select my own friends, even though I only go with nice girls and boys. But any one the family hasn't picked out is made the subject of so much criticism that it takes all the pleasure out of being with them. If I make a date, my mother insists on going along with me. I do not mind her presence myself, but no boy ever takes me out but once because he doesn't want to drag an elderly woman along with him. The situation makes me very unhappy. What can I do about it? SARAH.

Answer: I wish I knew, Sarah, but criticizing each other's friends is an indoor amusement in which every family indulges. It doesn't matter whether you are 19 or 90, as long as you live at home your father and mother, brothers and sisters will pull every one you go with to pieces and find something to criticize. They will be too fat or too thin, too lively or too dull. They will wear the wrong clothes. Something will be amiss.

One of the chief reasons why families break up as soon as they can is because the different members of it want to get away from the tongues at home and be able to do something, or have something, without always being kept on the defensive about it. Surely your mother must be a woman who is far behind the times if she does not know that chaperons are as extinct as the dodo, and that no girl can ever expect to have a date if she drags Mother along with her. Most boys find it all they can afford to pay for the girl's good time, and their pocketbooks don't permit an extra member on the party. Besides, mother kills the party. She doesn't want to go to the places they want to go. She doesn't enjoy the things they do. She wants to go home and go to bed about the time things are starting. So when the Boy Friend thinks of having to ask her to dance and drag her around a ballroom as if she were a 10-ton truck, he passes up the girl.

As for Mother's pretext of going out with the girl to take care of her, that's silly when you think of the girl working all day long in an office full of men. If the girl can take care of herself then, she can take care of herself when she steps out a bit of an evening. It is a great handicap to a girl to have an old-fashioned mother, and for the girl's sake Mother should try to come up to date.

responding Total Last Year

The number of family units drawing relief in Victoria during July was 17 below the total registered during June, but remained 22 above the number listed in July of last year, according to figures released today by the city welfare office.

There was no change in the single totals, July's figure being the same as June—424. In July, 1938, the unmarried jobless figure was 387.

Last month 456 family heads were listed against 473 in June and 434 in July last year.

Up to February of this year the number of families on relief showed a steady decline from the peak year of 1933. During the second month of this year, however, the totals have climbed slightly, but regularly, although they remained consistently below 1937 figures.

Marketing Board's Powers Widened

Powers of the British Columbia Tree Fruit Board were widened in several respects today by authority of the provincial government.

Full powers to cancel and suspend licenses, to refuse licenses to persons who have previously had them suspended, or are associated with those who have been suspended, are contained in the new clauses added to the scheme which went into effect on January 20, 1937.

The board is also given authority to promote the sale of fruit under its control by advertising, and to enter into litigation.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Draws Business Leaders

MR. AND MRS. FRITZ SICK

VANCOUVER—Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Sick on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary, officers and directors of Associated Breweries of Canada Limited, will tonight tender the pioneer brewer and his wife a dinner at the Vancouver Hotel, and present to him a punch bowl, with goblets and tray. A parchment scroll attests the esteem in which Mr. Sick and his wife are held.

The directors and officers held their annual meeting in Vancouver today, the time and place being chosen to coincide with the couple's 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. Sick is chairman of the board of Associated Breweries and remains active in the business. Both he and his wife retain much of the spirit of youth.

On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Sick will be at home to their friends in the Sick residence on Marguerite Avenue.

From widely scattered parts of Western Canada and the United States have come the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Sick have three living sons and one daughter, Mrs. J. A. Blair of Vancouver, Emil C. Sick of Seattle, president of the Associated Breweries of Canada Limited, and of the Seattle Brewing & Malting Co., and with other breweries at Great Falls and Missoula, Mont., and Spokane, Wash., and Fred Sick, Vancouver business man, and Leo Sick, who lives on his ranch in the interior of British Columbia.

He came to America in 1883 landing at New York with $5 and a ticket to Cincinnati.

The early years of the immigrant boy consisted of long hours of work and study. But he showed perseverance, willingness to work and sacrifice, business sagacity and thrift.

"There are still opportunities for young men today," he says, "but at the moment it is certainly difficult for youth. Still, one must always know one's job. He must be a worker. A lazy boy never will be heard from. He's beat from the beginning."

After six years, Fritz felt his income had reached a point where

Kiwanians Urged To Develop Island

Opportunities of Territory
Could Be Fulfilled
By 'We Build' Motto

"If Kiwanis wanted to fulfill its motto—'We Build'—in the best possible way, it should help prepare Vancouver Island to what nature intended it to be—one of the world's greatest playgrounds and producing grounds for mankind."

John F. Bledsoe, Victoria traveler, author and miner, told this to the Kiwanis Club at the luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel today.

From his travels on the island, Mr. Bledsoe had noted vast opportunities for development and he urged the Kiwanians to be true to their motto in building up the territory.

The speaker explained that the motto "We Build" had been used throughout the ages. He had traced it as far back as the Bible, the first translated words of the Hebrew translation being, "In the beginning the builders built."

Since the stone ages, man had trekked westward. That was still being done, he said. He traced the westward trend from the chieftains of the Gobi Desert who were forced to find new lands in which to live. The Atlantic was seemingly unconquerable but the urge was with man and the discovery of the western hemisphere resulted.

The duty of all now was to help prepare, no matter how small the contribution was, for those who were to follow. From there Mr. Bledsoe spoke of the potentialities of Vancouver Island and the work that Kiwanis could do in building.

Austin Curtis presided and a vote of thanks was extended the speaker by Neil Pollock.

As a mark of respect for Mr. and Mrs. Sick, all employees of Associated Breweries throughout Western Canada were today given a holiday with pay and open house was held at each of the plants.

Mr. Sick's next venture was the founding of the Fernie-Fort Steele Breweries during construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway. At Fort Steele Leo was born in 1900.

In 1901, Mr. Sick sold out and went to Lethbridge, Alberta, where he founded the present Lethbridge Brewery.

Mr. and Mrs. Sick lived in Lethbridge for 30 years, where he developed the plant from its small beginning into one of the largest breweries in western Canada. In 1930 they moved to Vancouver, where he organized the Capilano Brewery in 1934, and personally supervised its operations until recently, when he retired.

In 1924 Mr. Sick and his son, Emil G., built plants at Regina and Prince Albert, Sask. Today, the Associated Breweries Emil heads, comprises the Edmonton Breweries Ltd. of Edmonton, Lethbridge Breweries Ltd. of Lethbridge, Prince Albert Breweries Ltd. of Prince Albert, Regina Brewing Co. Ltd. of Regina, and the Capilano Brewing Co. Ltd. of Vancouver. Also Emil is interested in breweries at Seattle and Spokane, Wash., and at Great Falls and Missoula, Mont.

C.C.F. Candidate On Salt Spring Island

Ronald Grantham, C.C.F. federal candidate for Nanaimo riding, addressed a public meeting at the Fulford Hall, Salt Spring Island, Saturday night.

"Our task is to preserve and develop political democracy and to extend democracy into the economic field," he said. "To build a commonwealth fit for human beings to live in we must secure social ownership of the means of production and social planning of the economic life."

Murray Bryce of Victoria said "There are 500,000 young people unemployed in Canada, and the government admits that 98 per cent of all wage earners in Canada average under $700 per year. Not enough people realize that this is the power age, and that science offers us an abundance beyond our greatest dreams. We can have this abundance only when we organize production for human need in place of private greed."

Ronald Grantham also addressed a private gathering at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rush at Ganges Sunday evening.

Heat Continues

Old man weather has been playing tricks today. The heat has varied from warm to hot since 9 this morning according to Gonzales Meteorological Observatory officials and at 2:30 this afternoon there was no telling what would happen.

Today has been one of the warmest days in town although it is difficult to estimate the temperature in the heart of the city. At the observatory the mercury went as high as 78.5 degrees. This was soon after 1 this afternoon.

At 9 this morning the thermometer at Gonzales registered 76 degrees. Officials gave a north breeze as the reason. Later the breeze changed to a south-westerly direction and the thermometer-dropped considerably. As the sun advanced in the sky the temperature came back to the first highest reading and went further to the 78.5 degree mark.

Since that time a continued variation in the heat has been experienced. The hottest day this year was August 2 when the thermometer went as high as 87 degrees.

Brought British Thanks to U.S.

Co-operation in Colonial
Social Services Stressed
By Sir W. McLean

To bring the thanks of Britain to the United States for the contribution made by Americans toward the development of social services among the 60,000,000 natives in the British colonies, is the mission which brought Sir William McLean, British health expert, to this continent.

Sir William arrived at the Empress Hotel last night for a short stay in Victoria.

He came to New York two months ago at the invitation of British Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald to represent the colonies in connection with their exhibit in the British pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and has since then attended the annual meetings of the Canadian Public Health Association in Toronto and of the Dominion Health Council and the Civil Engineering Institute of Canada at Ottawa, visited the San Francisco exposition, attended the Pacific Science Congress in San Francisco and spoken at the universities of California, Oregon and Washington.

He says the invitation to speak here on Friday will enable him to fulfill two of his ambitions—to see Vancouver Island and to travel through the Canadian Rockies.

U.S. CO-OPERATION

The colonial exhibit at the New York fair, he said this morning, shows something of the extent of United States co-operation in the social advancement of the colonies.

"That co-operation has been very great, principally through the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation in health matters and the Carnegie Corporation in educational matters."

"American missions throughout the colonies have also done much through research and experimental work in advancing social progress, for which the people of the British colonies owe a great debt of gratitude."

Sir William's subject before the Canadian Club will be "New Methods and Applications of Social Services in the British Colonies."

He will speak of the superstitions—some of them highly amusing—which in many districts are impeding the application of modern methods.

Two Women Missing In Quebec Forest

Search Made for
Dr. Ruth P. Dow
And Dr. Joan Buchanan

MONTREAL (CP)—Two women—one from Montreal and the other a friend from Glasgow, Scotland—have been missing in the dense bush country around L'Annonciation, about 150 miles northwest of here, since early Sunday morning, it was learned here today.

The women are Dr. Ruth P. Dow, a demonstrator in bacteriology and immunity at McGill University for several years, and bacteriologist at the Alexander Hospital here, and Dr. Joan Buchanan of Glasgow.

Woodsmen in L'Annonciation district have been searching for the two disappeared after starting to walk to Beaver Lake, about one mile from L'Annonciation. The women, both used to the outdoors, did not take a guide on the short hike because the trail was believed an easy one to follow.

George Dow, brother of one of Dr. Ruth Dow, left Montreal today to join in the search. He said his sister and Dr. Buchanan had left Montreal Wednesday morning to spend a month motor-ing through Quebec province and the eastern United States.

IS ACQUITTED ON BREAK-IN CHARGE

On the grounds identification evidence was inadequate, Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court today acquitted William Thomas Williams, charged before him with breaking and entering the premises of Alexander Shavofal with intent to commit an indictable offence.

The judge expressed his suspicion Williams was guilty, but declined to convict on the evidence adduced.

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Neil Clifford, 23-year-old catcher for Tacoma, a Western International League Club, has been sold to the Cincinnati Reds, Jack Quill, club president, announced today.

Clifford will report to Cincinnati next spring. Quill said the Tigers will receive a "sizeable amount of cash and two players for the youngster, who came to Tacoma this year from San Francisco of the Coast League.

In five years of organized baseball, Clifford, whose home is in Oakland, Calif., has played with San Francisco, Muskogee of the Western Association, Vancouver, B.C., and Tacoma, Wash., both Western International League clubs.

DEAD END KIDS AND GRANT MITCHELL in a scene from the drama, "Hell's Kitchen," now at the Dominion Theatre.

DEAD END KIDS AND GRANT MITCHELL in a scene from the drama, "Hell's Kitchen," now at the Dominion Theatre.

'Hell's Kitchen' At Dominion

'Dead End' Kids Are Featured in Warner Production

More sympathetically presented than they ever have been before, the "Dead End" Kids are the central characters of "Hell's Kitchen," the Warner Bros. picture which opens today at the Dominion Theatre.

The story is also unusual in that it includes as a foil for the boisterous youngsters an adult character who is in effect just such a kid grown much older, much wiser and much tougher.

This character is played by Stanley Fields. The other leading roles are taken by Margaret Lindsay, Ronald Reagan, Grant Mitchell and Frankie Burke, the erstwhile Cagney impersonator being in this instance added to the "Dead End" gang.

In a series of absorbing sequences which range from the luridly melodramatic to the hilariously humorous, the picture tells of the regeneration of the tough-guy racketeer played by Fields as a result of the sympathy aroused in him by the tough but essentially good inmates of a shelter home for boys.

COLUMBIA THEATRE
Annabella, who is hailed as one of the continent's greatest stars, shares top honors with Tyrone Power and Loretta Young in "Suez," now at the Columbia Theatre. The film is Darryl F. Zanuck's spectacular re-creation of the story of Ferdinand de Lesseps and the great canal that is the jugular vein of the world.

PLAZA THEATRE
Something new in love stories is brought to the screen by William Powell and Ginger Rogers in "Star of Midnight," mystery romance in which these two popular players are co-starred at the Plaza Theatre.

Woven around New York's society and night life, this modern, sophisticated drama follows no chartered course.

Ginger, in the role of a young society beauty, takes the aggressive, and it's hard to tell whether Powell is a willing victim, or an apprehensive climber to the standard of bachelorhood. In other words, it's the man in the case who keeps the girl and the audience guessing.

OAK BAY THEATRE
S. Sylvan Simon, who directed Dennis O'Keefe and Florence Rice in "The Kid from Texas," is playing at the Oak Bay Theatre, playing a director more people in a shorter period of time than any director on record. He started his career directing amateurs applying to Bide Dudley's "Theatre of the Air" in New York. They paid 25 cents a week to the organization for the direction. The group totaled 1,600. He directed them in units nightly and Sundays and produced "Lysistrata" and "Girls in Uniform" with them.

Capitol to Show Unusual Story
When a man plays the part of a lone wolf with little regard for his fellow man's opinions, he is breeding radical tendencies of some nature—and usually to no good end.

Such is the opinion of the authors of the original story of Universal's "I Stole a Million," which will open at the Capitol Theatre
